Edward Gaining Popular Backing In Dark Crisis

FIFTY-SIXTH YEAR. VOL. LVI, No. 287 — EDMONTON, ALBERTA—MONDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1936 — Single Copy, Five Cents

CANNES, France, Dec. 7. — Wallis Warfield Simpson announced today she is ready to give up King Edward so he may retain his throne.

Mrs. Simpson in a signed statement handed to the press by Lord Brownlow said she was ready to give up King Edward to save the throne of the British Empire.

"Throughout the last few weeks I have invariably wished to avoid any action or proposal which might hurt or damage His Majesty or the throne," the statement began.

"Today my attitude is unchanged and I am willing if such action will solve the problem to withdraw forthwith from a situation that has become unhappy and untenable."

The statement was given out by Brownlow at the gates of the villa where Mrs. Simpson has been staying. He made no comment after reading it aloud.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The London News-Chronicle made an analysis today of letters that poured in over the week-end on the subject of King Edward and Mrs. Simpson, and found:

49 per cent of the men favored the projected marriage.

29 per cent of the men opposed it.

13 per cent of the women writers favored the match.

Nine per cent of the women were against it.

The analysis ignored all letters which did not express a definite opinion.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—Prime Minister Baldwin told the House of Commons today the government will not press King Edward for a decision on his plans for possible marriage with Mrs. Wallis Simpson. Reading from a manuscript, Baldwin said.

"I am glad to have occasion to make a further statement on the cabinet's position.

"In considering this whole matter it has always been and remains the cabinet's desire of the government to afford His Majesty the fullest opportunity of weighing the decision which he himself so directly his own future happiness and the interests of all his subjects.

"At the same time they cannot but be aware that any considerable prolongation of the present state of suspense and uncertainty would involve the risk of gravest injury to the national and imperial interests—and indeed no one is more insistent upon this aspect of the situation than His Majesty," the prime minister continued.

"In view of certain statements which have been made about the relations between the government and the King, I should add that with the exception of the question of morganatic marriage, no advice has been tendered by the government to His Majesty, with whom all my colleagues have been strictly personal and informal.

COMMUNICATE WITH BALDWIN

"These matters were not raised first by the government but by His Majesty himself in conversation with me some weeks ago when he first informed me of his intention to marry Mrs. Simpson whenever she should be free."

(Mrs. Simpson's divorce decree from Ernest Aldrich Simpson would become final, with the approval of the King's proctor, on April 27, 1937.)

"The subject has therefore been for some time in the King's mind and as soon as His Majesty has arrived at the conclusion as to the course he desires to take, he will no doubt communicate to the governments in this country and the Dominions.

"It will then be for those governments to decide what advice, if any,

Mrs. Simpson Is Descended From Isle Man Kings

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The Sunday Chronicle said yesterday students of history discover Mrs. Wallis Simpson is descended from the Kings of the Isle of Man, the small island in the Irish Sea.

The newspaper said students assert old records show that in the 14th century Sir Simon de Montague, head of the House of Montague from which some persons say Mrs. Simpson is descended, married Affrica, daughter of the King of Man, and that their descendants reigned for 90 years on the island.

She May Be Next In LIne

MRS. JACQUES RAFFRAY, who, it is rumored, will wed Mr. Ernest Simpson, once the divorce obtained by his wife in London becomes final, was protected by police from interviewers and photographers when she arrived at Southampton from a New York visit. A male companion, reportedly Mr. Simpson, asked official assistance to prevent her from being annoyed.

BIG GUNS BORE PATH THROUGH SPAIN CAPITAL

Ottawa Puzzled Over Situation In London's Turmoil

By THOS. WAYLING
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, Dec. 7—The British Empire is waiting for its King to come down from Gethsemane. The statement made by Premier Baldwin in the House of Commons indicates that His Majesty is facing a crisis which may mean the crucifixion of his own personal hopes, but which may be necessary to save Britain and the Empire from disruption which may mean destruction.

The King has not been threatened; but he has been told that the Empire will not accept the twice-divorced American woman as the successor to Queen Mary and Queen Alexandra who held and maintained the sanctity of marriage and the home above all things.

The possibilities of the King's insistence on having his own way against the advice of his constituted advisers are exceedingly grave. For 250 years no British king has successfully maintained his divine right or his right to be above parliament. The present king is personally popular. Aspiring politicians like Winston Churchill can sway mob opinion. A break between the King and parliament may mean revolution.

IS PROBLEMATICAL

The army and navy may be with the King; the younger generation would follow his banner. To what extent the great basic middle class of the United Kingdom will permit the King's will to rule is highly problematical.

Uninformed perplexity is the general reaction in the capital to Premier Baldwin's statement to the House of Commons in the matter of the King and Mrs. Simpson.

There is a growing belief that Premier King should take the Canadian public more into his confidence, in order that intelligent opinion might be arrived at. So far Mr. King has maintained a steady reticence.

General sympathy is felt with the King in his hour of Gethsemane.

ON KING'S SHOULDERS

Premier Baldwin's statement indicates that the entire situation has been placed on the King's shoulders for decision, and that His Majesty must decide his course. It is significant that the King has been given no official intimation as to

Renewed Efforts to Storm Capital Are Now Feared

MADRID, Dec. 7.—Fascist artillery blasted a path through the capital's suburbs today in what Socialist commanders feared was the preliminary to renewed efforts to storm the city.

Insurgent batteries crumpled blocks of bomb-riddled apartments with a heavy barrage in the Arguelles sector, hardest hit by recent Fascist air raids.

Madrid's defence line, which has resisted the siege for more than a month, was keyed up expectantly for the onslaught all the way from the cold wastes of University City in the capital's northwest to the dreary town of Villaverde, a suburb in the south.

Today, a month after the government fled to Valencia, Madrid was the scene of daily air raids by increasingly large armadas of Fascist bombers. Incendiary bombs and shells have devastated much of the city.

DEATH CUTS WIDE SWATH OVER SPAIN

Brilliant Young Citizen Soldier Murdered By Rebels

By M. H. HALTON
War Correspondent of The Toronto Daily Star

BARCELONA, Dec. 7.—Rains have passed. Spanish skies are blue, so death strikes savagely again on all fronts at the beginning of this month which means Christmas for you, but the 20th week of agony for Spain.

Twenty weeks hence the war will be over, and whoever wins, wins a ruined Spain. Today the government holds 15 provinces with over half the population of about 20,000,000. The Fascists hold 17 provinces. Conservatively, 70 per cent of the total population supports the government. The government has $350,000,000 in gold in Valencia. The war cost's Franco about $20,000,000 a month. Where does he get it? Can Spanish capitalists and the church provide it all? No. German and Italian gold supplies the balance.

DEATH CUTS WIDE SWATH

Death is cutting a wide swath through the ranks of brilliant young leaders thrown up by the proletariat in Spain's hour of need. Last week Durruti, the war's most brilliant citizen-soldier and leader, was murdered by rebels. Monday, in bloody Asturias, young Ramon Luntuna, remarkable girl commander of two women's squadrons, forming part of the Masim Gorky battalion, was killed in a violent attack near Grado. It is estimated that 5 per cent of those who went to the front from Madrid in August are still alive and the worst is yet to come.

The people's army today numbers some 150,000 men, while Franco's is only 70,000 on all fronts. Except for William Voce, Nottinghamshire's coal miner bowler, bowled with deadly effect, captured six Aussie wickets for 41 runs with his fast deliveries.

Mexico Opens Its Doors To Leon Trotzky

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 7.—Mexico's government opened its doors today to Leon Trotzky, the modern man without a country, Granting of asylum to the oft-exiled former Bolshevist leader was "in line with Mexico's traditional policy of giving refuge, without questions, to all political refugees," Eduardo Hay, Mexican foreign minister, declared.

Trotzky

It had no political significance, Hay said, confirming reports Trotzky here for 10 days that friends of Trotzky, who soon must leave Norway, had sought permission for him to live in Mexico.

REV. OSBORN TO RETIRE AT END PRESENT TERM

Will Relinquish Post as Pastor of First Presbyterian Church

Preliminary announcement of his intention to resign as minister of First Presbyterian Church on the completion of his fifth year in the post, on Aug. 31 next, was made from the pulpit of the church on Sunday by Rev. Andrew R. Osborn, the minister.

Osborn also said that he would intimate his intention officially to a meeting of the session on Tuesday.

"I will tender my resignation, but make it in time to give the session ample time to find a successor."

While his resignation will officially take effect on Aug. 31 next, his duties actually will terminate on June 30, as July and August are vacation months.

Dr. Osborn's intention to resign is based on "ill health and other reasons."

He came here in 1932 on the express understanding that he would remain five years and that period will terminate on Aug. 31 next.

Dr. Osborn has at present no plans beyond June 30.

Royal Commission On Penitentiaries To Sit Here Soon

Necessity of homes for juvenile delinquents and separate jails for drug addicts are among the submissions being considered by the provincial government to the Royal Commission on Penal Institutions which is expected to sit here in the near future.

Acting Premier Hon. J. W. Hugill, K.C., attorney general, stated on Monday that the department is engaged in preparation of submissions.

Provision of vocational training for all prisoners in for more than one year's sentence also may be urged. This point would require an amendment to the Criminal Code which now provide for two years.

Vancouver Holds Out Helping Hand To King And Spain

Social Credit Group Sees Base Politics Rule in London

VANCOUVER, Dec. 7.—British Columbia section of "Douglas Social Credit," numbering 75 members, Sunday cabled the King's secretary that the constitutional crisis regarding the King's proposed marriage is "an attack on the integrity of the throne and an attempt to subjugate the beloved Monarch' of British peoples to the power of political and economic reaction."

The B.C. section announced the parental secretarial in London advises that all its groups support King Edward.

Coast City Clergymen Send Cable Encouraging Madrid

MADRID, Dec. 7.—Gen. Jose Miaja, virtual defence dictator of Madrid, received a telegram of encouragement from clergymen and other professional men of Vancouver today.

Pope Rallies After Partial Paralysis

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 7.—Pope Pius, gaining strength in his partially paralyzed limbs, asked his physicians today to permit him to leave his bed at the earliest possible moment. He signed several papers during the morning but deferred action on others, saying he would handle them tomorrow, "when I am up again."

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 7.—Pope Pius XI gained slightly today in his fight against partial paralysis of the legs while millions of Catholics throughout the world prayed for him.

A verbal bulletin given out last evening declared:

"His Holiness' general circulatory condition has been notably improved because of the repose which he finally has been willing to take."

Vatican prelates felt especially relieved over this improvement in circulation because they had feared a blood clot which developed on the left leg of the 79-year-old pontiff might have serious consequences.

Government Spokesmen Wage Heavy Fight for Election

Special to The Bulletin

FALHER, Dec. 7.—After one of the most strenuous campaigns in the history of the north country Grouard is going to the polls today to vote in the by-election caused by the death of the late L. A. Giroux, M.L.A. That the present contest is considered a vital one by the Aberhart government is shown by the extensive campaign which has been waged.

Nearly all cabinet ministers, including Premier Aberhart himself, have been in the district, while back benchers of the legislature from outside have also been drafted in for the campaign which has been waged unremittingly since the decision to place a government supporter in the field was reached.

No part of the district has been left uncovered by the government spokesmen and every promise possible has been made to insure the return of a government supporter.

Wrecks Of War Need Yule Cheer

It's a long way to Tipperary,
It's a long way to go.

When the call to arms sounded in 1914 and the soldier boys went forth to war, they gaily sang about Tipperary. They sang it lustily as they embarked on trains and boats for overseas.

"Over there" they still sang about Tipperary and the mythical end of the long, long way, which for some ended with little white crosses bearing the legend "killed in action" and for others the long, long way ended with cruel wounds, resulting from high explosive, shrapnel or other shells, or from gas or molten metal.

SOME ARE HERE

Some of these soldier boys, who went away in the prime of life are now patients in the Mili ry Ward of the University Hospital, after 13 long years, still suffering from wounds and other disabilities received in action.

Each year since the Armistice the Bulletin has opened its columns to receive donations to the Not Forgotten Fund.

Each year Bulletin readers have subscribed to the fund in order to provide Christmas comforts and good things for the soldiers. Bulletin readers have ensured that the ravages of war and the effects of wounds are forgotten as the returned boys, for the time being, forget their pain.

THINNING RANKS

Let this year be no exception. Each year, dear readers, endurance of the agony of remembering becomes more difficult. Each year the soldiers' resistance is whittled down a little. Each year they appreciate your solicitude a little more.

Each year, too, the ranks of the patients in the military ward become a little thinner.

Each and every reader wants the soldier patients to have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. So get on the band wagon, good people, send in your donation today and it will be acknowledged in these columns.

ROTHERMERE SAYS SIMPLE LAW IS NEED

Easy to Legalize Morganatic Marriage Avers Publisher

LONDON, Dec. 7. — Viscount Rothermere published a letter today in the Daily Mail asking if Great Britain "can afford to lose a sovereign of such superlatively splendid qualities."

The matter could not be decided by legal text books, he wrote; it needed all-round human sympathetic consideration.

The newspaper peer followed tonight with a letter in the Evening News, urging a morganatic marriage between the King and Mrs. Ernest Simpson. He explained that while as a man the King would be married, he would remain single as a monarch.

"It would be simple to legalize a morganatic marriage," he wrote. "It would be difficult and dangerous to legalize an abdication.

"One short act passed through the British and dominion parliaments would make this legal."

He predicted:

They would pass such an act with a huge majority.

He added there had never been a suggestion that Mrs. Simpson become Queen from any quarter whatsoever. She had no desire to be made a member of the royal family or to appear on ceremonial occasions.

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 7.—The logical inland air route from the United States to Alaska would start at Great Falls, Mont., and cut north to Edmonton, continuing on to White Horse, Y.T., Major R. W. Premier Stands By on Sunday In King Crisis

LONDON, Dec. 7.—Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express, under the caption "Latest Reports From The Dominions," yesterday declared:

"The Canadian government views the crisis so seriously that it is scrapping the long-fought-for right to address the king through the Governor-General instead of through the British parliament. Prime Minister Mackenzie King has indicated any official news must reach Canada through Mr. Baldwin as the spokesman for all empire governments."

The Express does not profess the foregoing to be a textual cable from Canada, but merely a summary.

OTTAWA, Dec. 7—Prime Minister Mackenzie King, keeping constantly informed of the numerous reports and sidelights on the constitutional crisis in London, and doubtless receiving private communications of a more official nature from the Dominion's representative in the empire capital, remained alert throughout the week-end.

Indicative of the close watch the government is keeping on developments, Mr. Mackenzie King's offices were kept open all yesterday. His secretaries were in readiness to immediately advise the prime minister of any cables from London.

Circumstances arising from King Edward's relationship with Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson continued to occupy the minds of all adult Canadians.

ENTERS DENIAL

Only when it was reported unofficially from London that Canada and South Africa, in protests to Mr. Baldwin, had hastened like action did the Canadian prime minister make any positive statement. Mr. Mackenzie King emphatically denied that in the "existing situation" any action by the British government was at the "instance or insistence" of Canada. He felt confident, the prime minister declared, he could say the same for the other Dominions.

Lord Tweedsmuir, governor-general of Canada, concluding a tour through western Canada, arrived in Ottawa Saturday.

It would now seem inevitable that, added to the defence question forecast as likely first of the leading debate when parliament meets, will be the circumstances arising from the present situation in London, regardless of the outcome.

OTTAWA SPECULATES

Speculation as to the probable attitude of the Dominion government if Stanley Baldwin and his cabinet should resign because of the King's refusal to act on their advice, has already started here.

In the absence of any official expression of opinion the belief has been general there would be no reason for Mr. Mackenzie King to take similar action.

While Mr. Baldwin's statement in the commons yesterday made it plain he had received advice of the Dominions as to their attitude on the question of marriage, it is considered unlikely the Canadian government has exercised its prerogative to the extent of asking Parliament to offer any direct advice to His Majesty.

It is considered likely that, within a day or two, the details of the exchanges between Canada and Mr. Baldwin will be disclosed, either here or in London.

KING IN TOUCH BY TELEPHONE WITH FRIEND

Edward VIII and Mrs. Simpson Converse Several Times

CANNES, France, Dec. 7. — Wallis Warfield Simpson and King Edward talked by telephone several times today while the world waited for a decisive development in Britain's constitutional quandary.

Mrs. Simpson, it was learned on good authority, also communicated by telephone with several other persons in London from Villa Lou Viei here.

She spent the day in the deepest seclusion. The road to the villa was closed a quarter mile from the entrance to all save residents and others with important business.

A Scotland Yard detective and a local gendarme barred the way to the curious. The estate is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rogers of New York.

OTTAWA FINDS PERPLEXITY IN LONDON WOES

what action should be taken.

There is some criticism in the capital that the Dominion governments should have taken the grave step of advising the British government of their stand without consultation with parliament. The crisis is fraught with such serious possibilities that only parliaments can take the responsibility.

The Canadian parliament can be called instantly the government deems it necessary; all that is needed being the time to get the members of the Commons and fifteen senators in Ottawa to form a quorum.

MINISTERS AT LOSS

There is a possibility, indeed a probability of this action being taken should the crisis come to a head.

Even the cabinet ministers are at a loss to form an opinion on the merits of the case, Mr. Baldwin's statement clears up the question of the responsibility so far of the British cabinet. No threats have been made to the King to make him give up his proposed marriage to Mrs. Simpson. He has simply been informed as to the probable course of parliament.

Should His Majesty persist in his course and marry Mrs. Simpson, Mr. Baldwin cabinet will undoubtedly resign. Whether that would be followed by the resignation of the King cabinet in Canada and the other Dominion cabinets is problematical.

GROUARD VOTES TO FILL PLACE IN LEGISLATURE

Dr. Desrosier, Social Credit candidate, has been given every assistance possible by the government and has himself worked untiringly throughout the campaign.

A. H. Trenhaly, former district agriculturist, who is carrying the Liberal banner in the campaign, has also proved an indefatigable worker. His meetings have been well attended throughout and the general reception by the public enunciated by him have been encouraging, but the pressure brought to bear by the government has been great. Indications are that the vote will be heavy as both sides are concentrating today on getting their supporters to the polls.

MRS. KENNEDY, PIONEER, DIES

Mrs. Isabella Kennedy, 86, resident of the Edmonton district since 1887 died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert T. Fletcher, 9527 106 avenue, shortly after noon Sunday following an illness of about two months.

Born in Valley Boley, Ireland, on July 1, 1850, Mrs. Kennedy came to Canada with her parents in 1866. There she married John Kennedy and they moved to a bush farm about 90 miles north of Toronto, near Minesing. In 1887 they came west and settled at Dunmore, near Medicine Hat, and two years later they trekked north, locating in the Poplar Lake district north of this city. They remained there till 1912, when they retired and moved into the city.

Her husband died in 1914, and then she went to live with her daughter, Mrs. M. E. Hassard, and in August, 1935, they moved to a farm south of Edmonton.

About two months ago she was stricken with heart attacks and moved into the city to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fletcher.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. R. T. Fletcher and Mrs. M. E. Hassard, both of Edmonton, and one son, Andrew, of Soda.

The funeral will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. from Andrews Brothers' chapel to the Little Mountain cemetery, north of Belmont.

QUICK JUSTICE METED OUT TO BASHAW YEGGS

Penitentiary Terms Follow Within Few Hours of Police Surprise

Special to The Bulletin

BASHAW, Alta., Dec. 7.—A cleverly planned surprise met three safe blowers who entered McNair's store in Mirror at 3 a.m. Saturday, having broken into the basement through a window and then proceeded to blow the safe. Lights were then switched on by three R.C.M. Police of Edmonton who had been waiting off and were stationed in the store.

One man known as Sam escaped through a window and took refuge in an outhouse where he discarded the nitro glycerine and tools. The other two police from Edmonton who were stationed in the Crown Lumber Co., opposite, rushed forward and arrested the man.

He was unarmed. The tools and glycerine was taken along for evidence.

Constable Gair of Bashaw and the R.C.M. Police of Stettler were stationed to watch roads leading from Mirror.

The yeggs were taken into custody in Bashaw and after preliminary hearing were removed to Edmonton. Saturday police from Edmonton returned with the three prisoners for a trial held in Bashaw in the fire hall at noon. The men were tried by Magistrate Robertson who sentenced Nolan to seven years, Sullivan to five years and Mood three years.

All men had police records and all pleaded guilty. Sergeant Simmons had charge of the prisoners, taking them to Edmonton right after the trial.

Bombs - And Madrid

This picture, flown to London, radioed to New York from there, and rushed direct to Edmonton, shows the destruction done the business district of Madrid by bombs dropped by rebel airplanes. Shell holes stella fired from its second storey, with a large loss of life. The street lamp indicates that the entire upper section of the structure is in ruins.

YACHT MANNED, STEAM UP FOR MRS. SIMPSON

King May Join Her For Cruise, Say Unconfirmed Reports

CANNES, France, Dec. 7.—The captain and a full crew boarded the 70-ton steam yacht "Sister Anne" in Monte Carlo harbor last night following unconfirmed reports here that King Edward, if he abdicated, would fly to meet Mrs. Wallis Simpson aboard the vessel for a cruise.

Its owner, Mrs. Reginald Fellowes, old friend of Mrs. Simpson, has placed the yacht at her disposal.

It was impossible to confirm reports of a prospective cruise.

HAS LONG SLEEP

Mrs. Simpson arose refreshed by 11 hours of sleep Sunday after her long motor trip across France and threw up the blinds of her room at Lou Viei Villa to gaze at the magic panorama of the Riviera.

Clad in a light blue wrap, she appeared at the window at 11 a.m. to draw in deep breaths of the crisp air, scented by orange groves and the breeze between the villa and the sea.

Suddenly Mrs. Simpson noticed a small group of curious villagers and folk gathered near the estate's gateway and drew back quickly, pulling the curtain.

The former Baltimore woman spent the entire day at the villa of New York friends.

PATROL GROUNDS

Scotland Yard detectives and local police with Surete Nationale detectives patrolled the grounds. They would divulge no information, except that Mrs. Simpson would not leave the grounds.

The villa, an old dwelling, completely modernized in 1928, is of pink stucco, trimmed with blue and red tiled roof.

SABBATH BRINGS NO RESPITE FROM FASCIST BOMBS

MADRID, Dec. 7.—Shell torn Madrid resembled a series of deserted villages today with crumbling buildings and battered streets in many sections as a Sunday morning aerial attack brought new death and damage.

The deadly daily shower of shells has crumpled many houses. Walls of others still stood, but many only shakily.

MANY KILLED

Shells yesterday fell into the fashionable Paseo de la Castillana, Ayala Street and San Bernardo Square where many were killed or wounded. Several buildings were destroyed.

Artillery through the night struck several houses near the telephone building and the government claimed two insurgent pursuit planes had been brought down in the Aranjuez district.

An official bulletin reported government guns shelled Aroner and Tajo, near Aranjuez in the south of Madrid, and destroyed the town.

Madrid militia captured the town of San Tolia in the Guadalajara sector and the war office said the insurgents were repulsed in the Guadarrama sector, northwest of Madrid.

"FAIR-HAIRED MOORS"

The newspaper Claridad spurred government militia to continue defence of Madrid, asserting "we have defeated generals Franco and Mola and we will now defeat Hitler and Mussolini and their fair-haired Moors."

A more than usual quietness in the siege yesterday led many here to predict a decisive attack on the capital this week.

SALAMANCA, Spain, Dec. 7—Five government airplanes bombed the insurgent-held city of Seville, Fascist radio reports reaching here said today. The reports said damage was slight.

Postal Business Shows Improvement

Edmonton's postal business along with other business enterprises in Northern Alberta showed steady improvement during 1936, it being estimated there will be an increase of approximately $500,000 in the amount of money orders and postal notes cashed through the local post office for the twelve months of 1936 as compared with 1935.

During 1935 $3,852,949.12 worth of postal notes and money orders were cashed, these being presented mainly from mail order houses in the city. For the 11 month period ending November, 1936, the total cashed was $3,825,783.49, and with the Christmas shopping figures swelling the total for December it is estimated that a further $500,000 will be added to this figure.

PARIS, Dec. 7.—Premier Blum told the French Chamber of Deputies today that if a military dictatorship in Spain should be linked to dictatorship in Italy or Germany it would be "a menace to peace," and signalling "to French security."

ERNST FACES MURDER TRIAL AT RED DEER

appeared for the crown while J. R. McClure, of Red Deer, represented Ernst and R. Fred Jackson appeared for Mrs. Pogmore.

Counsel were noticeably finicky in their selection of jurors and twelve candidates were challenged before a suitable sextet was impanelled. The jury consists of George Summers, J. H. Reid, Arthur R. Norris, P. R. Jarvis, E. P. Bergas and George R. Moore.

ERNST UNIMPRESSED

Ernst, a ruddy, stoop-shouldered man, who looked as if he had stepped straight off the farm rather than from Fort Saskatchewan jail, where he has languished since he was picked up by mounted police soon after the killing, appeared unimpressed by the gravity of his predicament. He gazed reflectively at his finger nails while opposing counsel bandied ten-dollar words.

Mrs. Pogmore, a fragile, petulant little woman, who appeared considerably older than her 38 years, was assisted into court by a police matron and glanced nervously about her while she was arraigned. She pleaded not guilty to the murder charge and was led away to await her trial which is not likely to begin until Wednesday or Thursday.

KNOTTY PROBLEM

A knotty legal problem was caused by the similarity of the evidence which will be presented in the two separate trials and Mr. Justice Ewing impressed upon the jury that the evidence which they hear in Ernst's case must not influence them in their judgment of Mrs. Pogmore. He asked the press to exercise caution in reports of the trial.

Paul Bardula, hired man on the Pogmore farm, who was playing whist with Pogmore and two others at the time of the killing, was the first witness called by the crown. He testified that they were pondering their cards when a smit crashed through the top window of the dining room and the farmer slumped to the floor, dead.

IN HER BEDROOM

Mrs. Pogmore, according to his testimony, left the house for a few minutes prior to the shooting but at the time of the actual killing was in her upstairs bedroom.

The jurors, who must remain in the sheriff's custody until conclusion of the trial, began their several days of enforced close contact when they were led out to lunch. Bardula was still on the stand when the hearing resumed Monday afternoon.

GENERAL GOUGH VINDICATED BY LLOYD GEORGE

Wartime Premier Absolves Army Leader After Humiliation

LONDON, Dec. 7.—Eighteen years after he had been recalled following the Allied retreat of March, 1918, General Sir Hubert Gough, commander of the fifth army, has been vindicated by war-time Prime Minister David Lloyd George.

"I need hardly say that the facts which have come to my knowledge since the war have completely changed my mind as to the responsibility for that defeat" the former premier wrote the general. "You were completely let down, and no general could have won that battle under the conditions in which you were placed."

DEEPLY WOUNDED

Said General Gough: "I have been through hell in the past 18 years. I was deeply wounded at the time of my dismissal but I am very grateful to Mr. Lloyd George for generously coming forward in recompense Gough. Prime Minister Baldwin said he did not think "at this distance" the government would be well advised to revise decisions taken by its predecessors.

NEVER COMPLAINED

General Gough himself has never complained, firmly believing that one day his military reputation would be restored.

"It has become belatedly," he said, "but that doesn't make the relief any less welcome. It is tremendous, that's the word. To be told that I had blundered was a shattering blow. It removed from the personal joy I gained from other awards."

General Gough had been held responsible for a share of the March, 1918 defeat at St. Quentin on the Somme—in eight days his fifth army defied an enemy force of 60 divisions on a front of 42 miles. When the Germans broke through his inferior forces on the line of the Somme was lost to the Allies. The British war office relieved the general of his command and recalled him.

Belfast Paper Jibes Britain On Divorce Act

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Dec. 7.—The Nationalist Londerry Journal jibed at the constitutional crisis today as meaning merely "easy terms of divorce: chicken has come home to roost."

"If the stamp of divorce is honorable for Mrs. Simpson, how can it be dishonorable for the King?" the paper asked.

"If it's right and reasonable for any other person that Edward's subjects how should it be reasonable in his case?

"The word, the affair means that Britain's divorce laws have come home to roost and few minded people are honest with themselves, but will pity Mrs. Simpson all the pain and blinding revelation is consequency is causing her now."

OTHER SIAMESE TWIN IS DEAD

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—The Godins twins, joined together by nature and separated by surgery, were reunited today in death.

Simplicio Godino died in hospital last night of cerebro-spinal meningitis, 11 days after his "Siamese twin" brother, Lucio, passed away of rheumatic fever. They were 28 years old.

Until stricken with meningitis Friday, Simplicio was recovering rapidly from the operation that severed him from his brother's body within an hour of Lucio's death.

Largely because the twins had separated blood and nervous systems—they were joined by a segment of muscle, fused at the base of their spines—Simplicio had not been affected by his brother's illness.

Yuletide Cheer, Shopping Hours Will Be Talked

Proposed cash bonus to provide city relief cases with a little extra Yuletide cheer and late shopping hours for the Christmas season appear items which will be dealt with by city council at a special meeting called for Monday.

In former years each family on relief has been given a small cash bonus at Christmas time, in connection last year being $3,950.

The city charter gives merchants the right to remain open until 10 p.m. on the two Saturdays preceding Christmas and also on December 23. two days preceding Christmas. Larger stores favor both shopping on December 12, 19 and 23 The grocery trade, however, favors December 19, 23 and 24. The latter group points out, according to a report received from the Chamber of Commerce, that Christmas comes on Friday, that December 26 ("Boxing Day") as a holiday and is followed by Sunday, thus requiring people to be closed for three days in succession "which will work a hardship on many classes of consumers." Therefore these merchants want to be allowed to remain open Christmas Eve.

Dog Blamed For Tragedy Blast, Fatal to Eight

CHICOUTIMI, Que., Dec. 7—Isolated from the outside world by lack of communications and impassable mountain roads, the remote settlement of St. Ambroise held secret today the details of fire and explosion that claimed the lives of eight persons.

All that was known here, 20 miles below the scene of the tragedy on the Saguenay River, was that Mrs. Anvenia Brassard, 39-year-old farm woman, had perished with seven of her nine children when flames from a gasoline explosion destroyed the little frame home late Friday night.

MOTHER DIED

The mother, convalescing from childbirth, died in an apparent attempt to awaken her children asleep in the low-roofed attic.

She was unconscious, still clutching her 15-day-old child, when the father, Louis Brassard, staggered through smoke and flame to seek for her and the children. He tossed the infant through a window into deep snow and, with his clothing afire, found his way back to safety.

Brassard, the infant and an 18-year-old daughter were the only survivors of the family, living on the outskirts of the settlement.

SIX BOYS, GIRL

The children who perished, six boys and a girl, were Laurent, 15; Rosaire, 11; Jean Baptist, eight; Solange, six; Gerard, seven; Jean Paul, six; Laurier, two.

Unofficial word brought to this town blamed a dog for the tragedy.

The animal, coming in from the hills by horse and sleigh, said the dog had knocked over a can of gasoline in a back shed used for cooking.

The children were sleeping upstairs, and apparently the daughter who survived with her father, struck a match and went into the annex to investigate the racket.

BLAST FOLLOWS

Explosion followed, and within minutes the wooden home was enveloped in flames. Brassard found his wife at the top of the stairs. She apparently had collapsed while attempting to carry her new baby from the burning building, unable to lift his wife and head down the stairs. But he was too weak from over-exhaustion, and staggered down alone.

DEATH CUTS WIDE SWATH OVER SPAIN

modern German and Italian armaments, he would be beaten quickly.

Moscow, however, he points out as well as arms. Newspapers here report today 5,000 Germans have landed at Cadiz to join the rebel army. If true, it is bad news for the Spanish people in their awful struggle for liberty. Moscow says 5,000 Germans undoubtedly are armed men. Similarly, if the government had four or five British or French regiments, they would soon win all the north.

Through the streets today marched another 3,000 volunteers, including hundreds of foreigners. There are contingents from France, Belgium, Poland and Russia, and individuals from the United States, England, Germany and Czechoslovakia. There were fine young men and unimposing, seedy adventurers. One was a wealthy young German in expensive ski-clothes marching nonchalantly, and another was a cripple on a giant Jew from Poland. Young girls laughed, men cheered, the Popular Front saluted, refugees from Madrid cried, remembering their dead.

THOUSANDS OF REFUGEES

I have seen scores of thousands of refugees coming in from Madrid. I have seen fine new schools erected in the midst of war and revolution to educate children who never were educated before. I have seen collectivized factories functioning smoothly under workers' management. I have seen almost perfect order reigning in a great city with not one policemen and with 1,000 armed soldiers. It would seem people who love freedom have a genius for freedom. But the worst is yet to come.

KNOW BOMBERS WILL COME

Each morning great airplanes are heard approaching the city. It is if threatened with bombardment at last? A million pairs of eyes look skyward. Always there is a sigh of relief when they see two large Fascist airplanes flying over the city every day. But all know some day or some night there will be rebel bombers from the Balearic Isles.

MRS. SIMPSON READY TO GIVE UP EDWARD

they would feel it their duty to tender him in the light of his conclusion.

"I cannot conclude this statement without expressing—what the whole house feels—our deep, respectful sympathy with His Majesty at this time."

ASKS FULL INFORMATION

As soon as Baldwin had finished his statement, Clement R. Attlee, leader of His Majesty's opposition, inquired whether the prime minister would bear in mind the request of the house that it should receive the fullest information as soon as possible.

Baldwin said he would have great difficulty in answering supplementary questions at a moment when the situation is so grave and during the time while the King is still considering his final decision.

Winston Churchill asked if the prime minister could give assurance that "no irrevocable step would be taken."

Churchill was interrupted by loud shouts of "No! No!" from all parts of the chamber.

CHURCHILL INTERRUPTED

At almost every other word, Churchill was interrupted by shouts for order and "speech, speech!"

The speaker finally forced Churchill to abandon his attempt to question Baldwin by insisting the member was "going beyond a simple question."

George Lambert, Liberal, posed another supplementary question, asking whether the prime minister was aware there was deep personal sympathy with the government.

Baldwin denied answers to all questions, stating he could not enter into discussion of "hypothetical" situations. Ernest Thurtle, Labor member, jumped up to ask the prime minister if he would accept the opinion of the house on a possible morganatic marriage.

Before Baldwin could consider a reply another Labor member, F. J. Bellinger, asked whether, in view of the serious possible effect on British industry, the prime minister would renew the discussion of the crisis in the near future.

The debate was then cut up by additional cries of "order, order!" The house then passed to the next order of business.

The attitude of the cabinet after a prolonged session yesterday at the prime ministerial residence at No. 10 Downing street, indicated negotiations rising from the constitutional migus be drawn out considerably.

Prominent members of the Labor party have declared that they back the fundamental principles of responsible government. The issue of the crisis is left entirely to the advice of his ministers has not arisen.

LABOR FEARS RESULT

But Labor members fear that if it does and the cabinet yields it will establish a dangerous precedent in the event of a like crisis occurring.

All the implications of abdication already have been studied. A draft deed of abdication, it is said, already has been prepared. Legislation consequential to abdication has been considered. But the final choice lies with the King himself. He is reported to have expressed a desire for the utmost privacy.

Pressure of opinion in favor of renunciation is very strong.

STRONG PRESSURE

Pressure for and strong is being exerted on the other side. "Give the King time" is the oft-repeated phrase. With those who believed the King is more likely to change his mind about marriage to Mrs. Simpson.

In any event, the American-born divorcee cannot under England's matrimonial laws until her divorce decree is made absolute. That in the normal course of events will not until April.

KING WITH ADVISERS

At Fort Belvedere, King Edward conferred with his close advisers, Mrs. Simpson remained in complete seclusion at a villa in Cannes, France.

Supporters of the King crowded around the approaches to Buckingham Palace and surged through old Downing street to demonstrate their approval of their King.

Travellers Hear Chamber Secretary

Calling upon all business men to cultivate the art of self-reliance, John Blue, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, addressed the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Travellers' Association at a meeting in the Corona hotel Saturday.

He cited the opinion of Sir James Barrie to the effect that "he who does not possess the virtue of courage has no security for the preservation of any other virtue." He also lauded wit and fellowship as being among the "lamps of success."

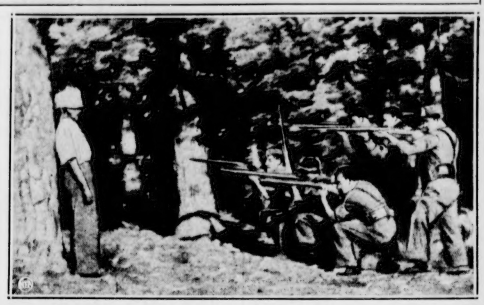

Captured Pawns In Spaniards' Ghastly Game In Today's Picture Display

Some soldiers die in battle. Some fight and run away. Many live to engage the enemy again and again. Others suffer the ignominy of being made prisoners of war. This exclusive picture shows what Spanish rebels do with the men they capture. Huddled against the road embankment in the foreground are slain loyalists. Above, their captured comrades are forced to dig graves for the dead.

The war's over for these Spaniards. Guarded by a Moor of the rebel forces, captured loyalists are lashed to each other by ropes looped around their wrists. They'll labor behind the rebel lines for their foes of a few hours before.

Not all prisoners of war are given an opportunity to live for the day when peace will be restored to Spain. Too often, as shown here, a firing squad and a convenient tree in an isolated spot end the captured man's plight. The youth who stands so defiantly with white hood drawn over his eyes awaiting the end was captured in Madrid and convicted of being a rebel spy.

CONSTRUCTION OF PEACE ROAD LINE BE ADVOCATED

A determination to press upon the provincial government the need of constructing without delay, an all-weather highway into the Peace River country featured the annual meeting of the directors of the Alberta Motor Association at the Macdonald hotel Saturday.

Delegates from Calgary, Edmonton, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat agreed that the securing of such a highway was indispensible to preserving the steadily growing contribution this district was making to the economic development of Alberta.

MUST WATCH B.C.

Several speakers warned that British Columbia was eager to divert much of the Peace River business to itself, and urged that nothing but adequate road facilities would secure the continued cooperation of the north country.

J. G. Butler, Edmonton, was re-elected president of the organization. Charles Benny, Medicine Hat, was appointed first vice president; L. Caldwell, Calgary, second vice president.

"The settlers of the Peace River country have devoted their time and capital to building up this district," said Herman Trelle, world renowned wheat wizard who was an honored guest of the convention, "and surely they deserve the assistance o' other parties of the province in getting their highway improved."

"The proposed cut-off which British Columbia is seeking to build into the territory is, it is true, 20 miles shorter than the Alberta road which is now partially constructed. But it goes through a practically valueless country. I travelled that country many times and I know," the world champion grain grower emphasized.

SOME WANT IT

"Now mind you," he added, "I am not opposed to having the alternative road built. Some of the Peace River people want it because it will help them. But I believe that it would be in the best interests of the district as a whole to complete the provincial highway before beginning work on any other route."

Mr. Trelle said that if the Alberta highway could be so constructed as to permit of fast driving with safety, its additional 80 miles would not inconvenience the motorist. He said the Alberta route would have much more attraction for tourists, as there was a superb route round Lesser Slave Lake, as well as many historic sites along the road.

BOTH VALUABLE

"I think it is the policy of plain, common sense to say that while both highways are valuable, it is wise to complete the one already in existence rather than, under present circumstances, press for the building of the new road," he concluded.

Hearty endorsation of this view came from Dr. G. J. Hope, chairman of the resolution committee, who asserted as a general principle the imperative need of gravelling and perfecting existing arterial highways before embarking upon the construction of new ones. The convention unanimously agreed with this view.

Charles Grant, K.C., Edmonton, called upon the convention to press the government to adopt more stringent safety measures.

EXAMINE CARS

He stressed the need of submitting every car to a rigid inspection for defective brakes and glaring headlights. He pointed out that there were many motorists operating outmoded machines on the highways and it was the duty of authorities, he claimed, to lessen the menace of these dangerous machines to the general travelling public.

The association decided to suggest to the Dominion government that the new highway connecting Jasper Park and Lake Louise be called the "Lake Louise-Jasper highway."

In discussing this resolution, A. B. Mackay, Calgary, said the name of the new route had excited much controversy in the press.

"The proposed name may not be the most euphonious but it will capitalize upon all the valuable publicity that has been given to the world-famed resort at Jasper Park," he said.

Several members argued that half the cost of building roads to the national parks should be borne by federal authorities, and recommended an extensive road program as a means of reducing unemployment.

SHARE GAS TAX

The motor league reiterated its position with regard to the gasoline tax. It pressed for the definite allocation of part of this levy for the maintenance and construction of provincial highways.

The association protested against the severity of police regulations governing travel in the Crow's Nest area, and resolved to send a copy of their resolution to the president and board of directors of the Canadian Automobile Association. It asked that motor travel throughout the dominion be made just as free and unrestricted as possible.

With a view to compulsory safety, the convention recommended that all motor vehicles be required to obtain a certificate from a licensed garage in the province testifying to the satisfactory condition of their parts before their operators may secure a driver's license.

UPWARD TREND DEPOSITS P. O. SAVINGS BANK

Figures do not lie, and if the post office savings bank deposits for 1936 are an indication, prosperity has commenced to return to northern Alberta. These deposits are made by working men in small amounts weekly and monthly.

For the eleven months ending November, 1936, there has been an increase of $25,802 over the 12 month period of 1935, it was disclosed by figures issued Saturday morning by postal authorities here. This would mean, it is claimed, on the basis of the average deposit monthly, that the increase for the full 12 months would be over $40,000.

October, 1936 saw the greatest increase in deposits, when approximately 100 per cent increase was recorded the monthly figure jumping from $9,784 in September to $18,268 in October. There was a considerable increase in deposits from the October high in November, but that month's $6,967 was well ahead of the general average of preceding months. Lowest deposit figures during the 1936 period recorded was $1,357 in February. Since that date there has been a steady upward trend in deposits.

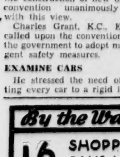

Coast Dispute Of Steamship Aides Settled

OTTAWA, Dec. 7.—Activities of a conciliation board headed by R. O. Campney, chairman of the National Harbors Board, have been successful in bringing about adjustment of a dispute over wages and working conditions between the Canadian National Railways and its purser and steward staffs engaged in Pacific Coast steamship services. Announcement of the settlement is made by the labor department.

The settlement provides for some, but not general wage increases and brings the classes of workers specified under a working agreement for the first time.

RELY ON KING, IS ADVICE OF QUEEN MARIE

Australian Paper Phones to Second Cousin of His Majesty

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 7—Queen-Mother Marie of Rumania counselled the British empire to "Rely on King Edward," her second cousin, in a telephonic interview from Bucharest, printed in the Sydney Sun.

"Let the empire keep steady and the King will do the right thing, for he's an Englishman." Marie said.

"I know what the empire means for, remember, I was an Englishwoman."

Queen Marie is a granddaughter of Queen Victoria, and a daughter of the late Duke of Edinburgh. In 1893 she married King Ferdinand I. of Rumania, who died in 1927.

Queen Marie

"You must be feeling great distress in the empire," the Rumanian Queen-Mother was quoted by the Sun as saying.

"But your King was loved everywhere and it will cause distress throughout Europe and the rest of the world.

"But that distress will stop. I know something of these things.

"Now, as never before, the empire must stick together. The calm and peace of Europe rest on the shoulders of Great Britain and the empire.

"This is not just the imperialist expression of the granddaughter of Queen Victoria. It is the simple truth."

SOCIAL CREDIT APPLAUDED BY REV. HANSELL

Money Barons Will Find They Have Met Master, Audience Hears

Given time, Premier William Aberhart will prove to the financial barons that they have met their masters, Rev. E. G. Hansell, member of parliament for Macleod, declared in addressing the Edmonton Prophetic Bible Conference at the Strand theatre on Sunday night.

With Premier Aberhart in the east and Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry, sick, Rev. Mr. Hansell was invited to take the service.

IN MONEY SYSTEM

Mr. Hansell declared that Social Credit was an economic science applied to the distribution problem. He said that people were recognizing that the chronic disorders of the present time were found in the money system.

Discussing the subject of "Social Credit and the Bible," he said that the Bible had something to say about economics He said that a system that sank the nations in debt because of extreme usury was not of God.

The present system had been built up over hundreds of years and it was steadily sinking many of the people to the position where they were poor.

COMES FROM SUN

In God's system the aim was that there should be no poor. All world production came from God and in this connection he said that man did not put wool on sheep, fruit on trees and kernels in grain.

It was possible for men to harness power, but if it were not for the sun's energy nothing would grow.

Lumberjack Guilty Of Double Murder

HULL, Que., Dec. 7.—Omer Girard, 34-year-old lumberjack, was found guilty Saturday of murdering two old men at Namur, Que., last April 6 and was sentenced to be hanged Feb. 26. The jury deliberated only 15 minutes. An unidentified woman spectator screamed as Mr. Justice Duranleau pronounced the death sentence.

Girard robbed and slew Leon Leclerc, 84-year-old fiddle-playing goatherd, and Alfred Dudevoit, 72, a cross between a modern motor boat and submarine.

It is enclosed, the body being streamlined, and has accommodation for four passengers.

Instead of having wheels it has runners and its motive power is supplied by an airplane engine attached to the rear of the passenger cabin. In view of the successful tests and the shipping of the machine up north, the manufacturers expect to build several more similar machines in the near future.

Snowmobile, Engine Like Plane, Edmonton Product

Dawn of a new Alberta industry was seen on Saturday afternoon when, at the premises of Hoover and Scott, on the South Side, the first "snowmobile" made its appearance and was inspected by W. D. King, deputy minister of trade and industry and others.

The snowmobile was built for a northern Roman Catholic bishop, who plans to use it in his missionary work. Successful trials were held.

U.S. Episcopal Bishop in Accord With Canterbury

CHICAGO, Dec. 7. — Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Chicago Episcopal diocese declared yesterday the Anglican church will have "no alternative" but to place King Edward under ban if he "breaks the laws of the church by marrying a divorced woman."

"I know the Archbishop of Canterbury personally as a courageous, kindly, noble gentleman and his attitude toward King Edward is that of a father," said the Chicago churchman. "But the archbishop is a firm man and is pledged to support the church.

"Were Edward to be crowned and then marry Mrs. Simpson, the archbishop would be compelled to refuse them both communion."

TORONTO, Dec. 7.—Approval of the attitude of the Archbishop of Canterbury was contained in a cable sent the Archbishop ever the week-end by the Canadian Churchman.

The cable said: "The national Church of England begs to offer your grace its support and prayers in this, our common crisis."

UNRESTRAINED INDIVIDUALISM SERMON TOPIC

New Ideas Always Create Ferment, Dr. Osborn Tells Congregation

Describing the ferment that is always created by the birth of new ideas which break the cake of custom, Dr. Andrew R. Osborn, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, spoke on "The Story of the Runaway Slave", in a Sunday sermon that emphasized the need of preserving tradition and avoiding any sharp severance with accepted social values.

"In the house of Philemon a slave Onesimus heard the doctrine of the Christian faith. It told of liberty and the breakdown of racial and class distinctions in Christ.

"One day Onesimus left home, taking with him some of his master's money. After many days he came to Rome, and there joined the Christians. Then he heard of the apostle Paul and his imprisonment. He visited Paul, and learned from him," Dr. Osborn said.

LIKE BROTHER

"One day two visitors arrived in Rome. They were old friends from Colossae, the young men who first brought the faith to their native town.

"One of them was returning, and Paul suggested to Onesimus that he should return too. He wrote a letter, our epistle to Philemon.

"He asked Philemon to treat Onesimus as a brother in Christ, and promised to repay the money taken by the slave. Legend says that Philemon not only forgave Onesimus, but freed him and in later years Onesimus became a bishop.

PROBLEM SOLVED

"Thus the problem of a slave was settled by the practice of Christian love. Today the story may well serve as a suggestion even for a troubled empire.

"Change and revolution have their appeal, but in the last analysis what we need is to preserve the essential relationships of life, and when conflict arises, rather to adopt the slower way of changing the heart than to make changes which may bring in their train the destruction of life's highest values.

"Unrestrained individualism, even in a monarch, will not do," Dr. Osborn concluded.

Food Vessel Leaves Seattle For Alaska

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7—A government-operated ship left Seattle Sunday with a cargo of food for Alaska—the first to leave the United States for that territory—to them land since the start of the west coast strike of sea-workers on Oct. 28—while on both east and west coasts the strike front remained quiet.

The ship, the Boxer, was loaded and manned by union men. Two other government-chartered vessels were posted to sail later this week.

All - American Neutrality Pact Urged At Parley

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 7.—A neutrality pact for all American republics was proposed to the inter-American peace conference last night by the United States delegation.

The plan—following out ideals expressed by President Roosevelt and Cordell Hull, secretary of state —would create a permanent inter-American consultative committee to coordinate existing treaties, agreements and bring agreement on a common neutrality policy, based on the United States' neutrality theory.

FRENCH PLEDGE LOOMS LARGE

LONDON, Dec. 7. — Informed British sources indicated today the possibility that a French pledge of Franco-Belgian help to Great Britain in the case of "unprovoked aggression" may be develop in new and informal Locarno agreements.

These sources said Great Britain was especially pleased by the "spontaneity" of Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos' pledge, and that Great Britain would be willing to exchange guarantees with Germany on the same basis.

Such a step would embrace all the Locarno powers except Italy.

RAIL QUIZ MAY END HOLDING COMPANY PLAN

Sweeping Investigation Into Railroad Financing Opened Today

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—With seven men prominent in railroadom called as opening day witnesses, the United States senate today sets out on the public hearing phase of an investigation of railroad financing.

J. P. Morgan

Prediction the probe may result in a legislative "death sentence" for railway holding companies. Chairman Wheeler (D.-Mont.) of the senate interstate commerce committee, announced many foremost financiers — including J. P. Morgan — would be called as witnesses.

The investigation will open with a study of one of America's largest rail networks, the 23,000-mile system controlled by the late Van Sweringen brothers.

Wheeler said the inquiry ultimately would delve into the fiscal history of 25 lines, many of them now bankrupt.

Aimed primarily at railroad holding companies, the investigation is an outgrowth of an inquiry conducted in 1930 by a house committee.

That group reported holding companies were "being used to defeat the will of congress" by keeping railroad consolidations out of the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Woman's Purse With $100 Used As Football

PLUMMER, Idaho. Dec. 7.—Some Indian boys, in need of a football, found a lady's handbag. It served the purpose for an entire afternoon of kicking and passing. That evening, when alert parents examined the bag, they quickly returned it to its owner, Pauline Campbell, 92. It contained $100.

FEDERAL AID FOR ALBERTA PUBLIC WORKS EXPECTED

OTTAWA, Dec. 7.—Finance Minister Dunning's meeting of the national finance committee, opening Wednesday, promises to be the highlight of this week's activities on Parliament Hill.

It will bring delegations from every provincial government, several headed by their premiers, and, with the agricultural conference opening Monday, will mean probably a week's discussion.

ABERHART THERE

Premiers William Aberhart of Alberta and T. D. Pattullo of British Columbia are both in the east and will come to Ottawa early this week to personally head their provincial delegations to Mr. Dunning's conference.

No details of the agenda have been made public nor has there been any announcement as to the personnel of the various provincial parties.

At the financial conference it is expected finishing touches will be placed on a proposed agreement between Alberta and the Dominion whereby the federal treasury will make a grant for works in that province to assist in meeting the problem of unemployment among single homeless men.

Efforts to get agreement on a systematized method of provincial and Dominion financing, loan timing, and tax collecting will be on the agenda, and the whole picture of Dominion-provincial financial relations will be studied.

TO MARKETING

At the second conference Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, will get the views of the provincial governments on reorganization of his department along lines that will pay greater attention to marketing Canadian farm products at home and abroad, and eliminate some of the duplication of efforts as between the Dominion and provincial agriculture departments.

While the constitutional crisis in England overshadowed activities on Parliament Hill the past few days, the government pursued its normal course with three scheduled cabinet sessions during the week and several conferences.

Work progressed on revision of the Canada-United Kingdom trade agreement, normal life of which runs to the fall of 1937.

Reports revision had been completed were declared premature and Prime Minister Mackenzie King said there was no new agreement yet. He could not forecast even that it would be ready when parliament meets.

THE CREED DOESN'T MATTER

Foreign Minister Arita told the foreign correspondents in Tokyo that Japan has not joined any Fascist bloc of nations. Thereby admitting Japan's recent moves on the international checker-board need explaining, at least to the point of denying the somewhat obvious conclusion.

Hitler and Mussolini will take no offence at the disclaimer. They do not care what Japan's professed creed is, so long as it backs the one against Russia and supports the other in his career of conquest. For a supposed democratic country, with a limited monarchy and a parliamentary system, Japan is travelling in strange company.

A WARNING FROM MOSCOW

From Moscow comes this arresting despatch: "Drunken drivers get no mercy in Russia. Si Yatzum got drunk and drove his truck through a safety zone a few days ago, killing two pedestrians and injuring eight others. Today a terse announcement said he had been executed."

The statement is brief, business-like, and to the point—like the method of dealing with the offender. It sounds cold-blooded. But there cannot be much doubt of the result. In a country where that method is employed, not many men are likely to drive cars when drunk.

In Canada and other democratic countries it is seldom that a driver, drunk or sober, is executed for killing a person. Our methods of punishment are more deliberate, and more considerate—of the killers. But what of the public, whose lives are endangered? And how long can the milder methods continue unless drivers respect the right of other people to the use of the streets and highways?

VOCAL DONNYBROOKS

Premier Hepburn and Mr. Earl Rowe, opposition leader in the Ontario legislature, staged a competition in shouting the other day before an audience of 2000 people jammed in the armouries at Madoc, at a meeting held after nominations were made of candidates in a by-election.

What was said on either side is not of direct importance in Alberta. What is of importance, here and all over Canada, is that neither speaker was given a fair chance to say anything. Boos, hisses and interruptions came from the audience, apparently in comparable volume, while either speaker tried in vain to make himself heard by those who wanted to listen. It was another of those riotous exhibitions of unreason which in Canada are coming to take the place of political discussions.

One wonders why political leaders demean themselves by tolerating such treatment. They would gain public sympathy and respect if they walked off the platform when the blatant—and likely enough paid—interrupters start their disturbance.

"Heckling" is nothing but another name for bad manners. It is one of the reasons why democracy is in doubt. Thinking ends when hooting begins. There isn't much use trying to talk to people who won't keep their mouths shut and give their brains a chance to work.

THE GRAIN COMMISSION

The scope of the Turgeon Grain Inquiry, now in session, is sufficiently broad to permit of detailed review of the more basic problems burdening Canadian grain-growing. The Commission's emphasis will be placed upon analyzing the factors responsible for the shrinkage in our export wheat trade, coupled with an examination of the marketing methods now being employed in the Dominion. Evidence will also be adduced to explain the effect of policies and procedure of European countries with respect to the growing and selling of wheat. The investigation will concentrate, above all else however, upon the admittedly supreme need of securing continuous and expanding markets for our surplus grain products.

If its initial work at Winnipeg is emblematic of its future course, the inquiry does not purpose curtailing its usefulness by any tenacious clinging to the mere stated text of its references, wide though they be. Whatever is pertinent to the welfare of Canadian agriculture should not, and can not, be irrevelant to the objectives of the commission. Two submissions to Mr. Justice Turgeon prove his awareness of this fact. Mr. Brockington sold high tariff's net annual ave rage per capita was $13.25 in Manitoba, $28.16 in Saskatchewan, and $28.93 in Alberta. Another speaker declared that from 1932-1936 Canada's wheat exports, due principally to retaliatory tariff measures, dropped about 91,000,000 bushels a year, as compared with the peak period before the depression. To deal adequately with the harmful effect of the tariff upon Western Canadian agriculture should be one of the commission's most obvious responsibilities.

COMMON GROUND

Drawing the line of distinction between its own platform and the policies of the Government of Alberta, the Social Credit party of British Columbia defines its objectives to be:

1. Control of the creation and issue of money by the Government.

2. Creation by Government of money at the rate of growth of production, and its issue into the economic system as a subsidy to consumption in the form of a dividend to every citizen.

3. A national discount on sales of goods by which the seller would be reimbursed for an equal reduction in prices to the consumer.

If these are the aims of Social Credit properly so-called, there are a good many outside the ranks of that party and outside British Columbia who can see reason in the basic idea, though they may differ as to the means for implementing it.

That the national Government should control the creation and issue of money was declared to be the opinion of the vast majority of Canadian voters last fall, when they returned the Mackenzie King Government—to use the public credit "in terms of the public need."

That the money supply of the country should increase with the increase in wealth is scarcely a more arguable proposition at this time. How else is property to be given any constant monetary value?

As to distributing the new money in dividends and trade discounts, there will be wider differences of opinion. A more obvious and equally helpful course would be to use the money to pay off public bonds and thus reduce taxation. The dividend question would come up properly for consideration when the debt has been liquidated. That is a matter of detail.

The important point is that Government creation of money, and increase of the money supply in relation to increase of wealth, have been urged for years by men and newspapers representing the Liberal party, and in smaller numbers the Conservative party as well. Those two propositions are definite conclusions to which many thousands of people, of all ranks and parties, have been driven by the bitter experiences of unchecked and unnecessary deflation of monetary values.

Many Causes Of Backache

By DOCTOR FRANK McCOY

The human being with a lame, aching back is in sore distress—his back hurts when he rolls out of bed, it pains when he moves around, and disturbs him both when he tries to work and when he tries to rest. Naturally, he wants to know what is causing his backache.

Dr. F. McCoy

It is very difficult to give him an answer to that question without first making an examination, inasmuch as there are so many possible causes of backache that one could hardly count them on the fingers of both hands.

The term "back" covers all of the back area between the neck and the end of the spine. When you realize what an extensive area this includes, you will readily understand that there are many possible causes of trouble in this large section.

In addition to the aches and pains which arise when there is something wrong with the back itself, this part may also be affected by reflex aches which are the result of a disturbance of one of the internal organs. For example, bladder inflammation may cause more difficulty in the back than in the bladder. Or, a misplacement of the uterus in women, or a prostatic enlargement in men, or a prolapsed colon in either sex, may induce backache.

Spinal lesions are another possible cause of backache. In many cases these lesions have resulted from accident or from relaxation of the muscles attached to the spine. Spinal lesions refer to partially dislocated vertebrae which have been pushed out of place during an injury or have slipped out of place because of muscular weakness.

Pain in the back may also result from a definite sprain, the patient remembering that the pain came on suddenly after a fall, or after wrenching or twisting the back while lifting a heavy load. The healthy person rapidly recovers from an injury of this type, but the individual having a tendency toward rheumatism may find that the rheumatic poisons settle in the affected area and continue to cause discomfort. Thus the injury may mark the start of a chronic form of backache. In some cases, the sprain will occur in the sacro-iliac region, producing marked discomfort through the lower back.

Backache is often the result of a foot defect and it is undoubtedly true that foot abnormalities may throw the spine out of alignment and thus induce back distress. Many individuals who have experienced a backache just from changing to heels of a different height will readily understand how a change in the position of the foot may influence the back.

Arthritis of the spine is still another possible cause of backache. In the beginning, the changes in the vertebrae may be so slight that it is hard to detect them, but after the case advances, these changes may be discovered by using the X-ray.

Aches in the upper part of the back are often due to occupational strains such as are brought on by sewing, knitting, or typing over a long period of time. Backache may also result from weakness of the back muscles which are flabby from lack of exercise and which lack the necessary strength to support the back properly. The proper kind of exercise which will tone up these muscles will succeed in banishing this type of backache.

In a short article of this kind it is impossible for me to discuss each cause of backache at great length and if you wish more complete information, I suggest that you send for articles. Here are the names of some of the articles now available: SCIATICA . . .; LUMBAGO . . .; BACKACHE . . .; SACRO-ILIAC SPRAIN . . . Forward your request and enclose a large, self-addressed envelope and 4c in stamps. In the average backache, the hot Sitz bath affords temporary relief, and a separate article on this subject is also ready for you if you desire it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Mrs. I. J. wants to know: "Do you consider that boiling brisket and rump is a healthful way of preparing these cuts of meat? Our family enjoys boiled meat, but I notice that you recommend broiling or baking and I was wondering about the boiling method."

ANSWER: Brisket and rump are inexpensive cuts of meat which may be prepared in a wholesome manner by boiling. However, the boiling process calls for the use of a gentle simmering, continued until the meat is tender. People who enjoy the meat to a greater extent if vegetables are cooked with it. Broiling and baking are also wholesome methods of meat preparation and may be used to advantage, producing a well-flavored meat dish, although you must remember that the broiling method would not be a good method to use for brisket or rump as these cuts require a more prolonged cooking period to make them tender. If you will inquire among your friends you will find that many women are skillful at boiling the cheaper cuts of meat in such a way as to secure a delicious main dish for the meal. The test of any food is not how much it cost, but how it was cooked. Careless cooking will spoil any food, regardless of cost, while skillful cookery will be rewarded with a delicious-tasting result.

Poems That Live

THE MONTAINS ARE A LONELY FOLK

The mountains they are silent folk,
They stand afar—alone;
And the clouds that kiss their brows at night
Hear neither sigh nor groan.
Each bears him in his ordered place
As soldiers do, and bold and high
They fold their forests round their feet
And bolster up the sky.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

Early in the week an out-of-town reader asked for the first and second articles of the "Usury" series that appeared in The Bulletin a few weeks ago. I have lost his letter. Perhaps he will be good enough to send me his address again.

Free discussion on this continent of King Edward's love affair with the alluring Mrs. Wally Simpson has resulted in discreet, but significant references in the British press, and to Cabinet discussion. It may yet result in open cleavage between the King and his advisers.

Nobody is going to lose their head over the matter, but when British monarchs and their advisers clash, monarchs learn who are the real rulers.

Every free-thinking subject, whether or not he desires the end of the system of maintaining expensive establishments to provide heirs for the Throne, will feel that the King ought to be free to marry for love. The regret is not that Mrs. Simpson is an American or a commoner, but that she is a third-hand wife. A second-hand wife for their monarch would be hard enough for the British public to accept, but a third-hand wife with both previous husbands still living, outrages British pride as well as British propriety. The last husband in the series was shuffled off under circumstances that would exclude the intervention of the King's Proctor, had the lady not been under the protection of His Majesty.

Though your commentator is numbered among the romantics and the liberty-lovers, the lady obviously has acted in a way that suggests she loves her own welfare and promotion better than the welfare of the King.

Rumors from London that His Majesty will resign the throne of England if his ministers persist in their efforts to prevent him becoming King Wally the Third, sound absurd from this distance. They assume that His Majesty would be simpleton enough to renounce the throne of England for the consortium of a second-rate American matrimoniac. Whoever utters such rumors comes close to committing treason.

I've been reading a new book by Wright and Fry, about the history of Christian missions in the South Seas. It more or less revolves around the history of the London Missionary Society and its efforts to supply the care-free natives in their island paradises in the southern Pacific with the blessings of clothing, toil and the theology of John Calvin. The opening chapter, "The First Gospelers in the South Seas", appeared in The Atlantic Monthly some time ago. The complete book, "The Puritans in the South Seas," is now off the press.

Those who have read Nordhoff and Hall's book, "Mutiny On the Bounty", or have seen the film version of the book, will be in chronological position to study the history of missions in the South Seas. Captain Cook had made a voyage to Tahiti a short while before to study the transit of Venus (surely a symbol of significance) and had brought back stories pf flower-bedecked natives leading a paradisal life. Bligh, his sailing master, was selected to command the ship that was to take plants and breadfruit trees to plant in the West Indies to supply cheap food to the slaves. Those of Bligh's men who survived the trip to Timor in the small boat, added to the glowing accounts of the happy life they had seduced Fletcher Christian and the other mutineers.

At home the poverty and depravity of the working classes was beyond hope. In Birmingham, London, Liverpool and the industrial towns they were steeped in gin and wickedness. Clearly they were among those whom the doctrine of predestination marked as hopeless. But these happy islanders, to whom life was a perpetual picnic, these lacked only a correct theological belief to fit them for eternal bliss. So the good ship Duff was laden with missionaries and trading goods, and left the Thames on Aug. 10, 1797 to Calvinize the islands of the Pacific.

It is a fascinating story, and in these chill winter days in Edmonton will make many a reader wish he was an early missionary in the South Seas, ordering the natives to come and live near to him for instruction, having them build houses and churches—one great church at Tahiti 712 feet long and 87 feet wide, so that three preachers could preach at the same time, on the principle of the modern three-ringed circus.

Once the terror of hellfire had been brought vividly to the more happy natives, the process of regularizing their lives began. Polygamy was forbidden, all had to rise at 6 a.m. on the sound of a bell, for prayers and work. Pearl-fishing, cotton-weaving, arrowroot culture, cocoanut oil production were started. Considerable trading privileges for private profit were accorded the missionaries. The old practice of tattooing was forbidden, and those found guilty were exposed to the hell of punishment on solitary reefs without food or water or condemned to stone-carrying. Men had to wear shirts and pants, and women wear Mother Hubbard gowns under penalty of punishment. All were instructed in the duties of Christian giving, the arrowroot and cocoanut oil being sold to traders or shipped to the London market.

But don't think it was all hunky-dory for the missionaries. John Williams finally was murdered by natives on a new island he sought to convert. More distressing was the plight of Brother John Harris. On his arrival at the Marquesas, the chief accorded him the customary gift of a young woman to be his wife. When Brother Harris sought to ignore the perplexed young wife, she gathered together some woman friends. They stole into his chamber at night, there to satisfy themselves as to whether a mistake had been made in his sex or not. Unfortunately they awakened the missionary. Brother Harris was so alarmed he packed and left the islanders to their fate.

SIDE GLANCES — By George Clark

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History —o— By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date in 1906 a British Columbia woman performed an act of heroism which should be placed in the Hall of Fame of Canada alongside the journey made by Laura Secord from Chippawa to Beaver Dams in 1813. Mrs. Patterson was the wife of the keeper of the lighthouse on Cape Beale, 80 miles from Victoria, at the mouth of Barclay Sound. On December 6 the United States barque Columbia Everett, Wash., with a cargo of lumber, riding right out into a terrific storm. The great roll of the Pacific drove her onto the "Graveyard of the Pacific"; all hope was abandoned; the crew threw themselves into the waves on improvised rafts, to be cast back on the ship; and all night struggled for their lives. When dawn broke the Pattersons saw the wreck, with men clinging to it. The gale had blown down the telephone wire; the husband could not leave his post; but his wife decided to go herself to the life saving post at Bamfield, the cable station, and take the news of the disaster.

That walk of six miles was enough to tax the physique of the strongest man, but this brave woman accomplished it, through drift wood, sometimes in water up to her waist, and then up a cliff, slippery with seaweeds, every step involving possible disaster. She finally staggered into a farmhouse, across from the cable station. She was exhausted, but insisted that she be rowed across. This was done; she gave her message; relief started off and in time, after hours of struggle, the whole crew were saved. Then Mrs. Patterson went to her bed, but not before she had, single handed, been taken home by the rescue steamer, administered aid to the half frozen men who had been snatched from death through her courage. Is it any wonder that she is known as the "Grace Darling of Vancouver Island?"

The Mail Bag

THE LEGAL ASPECT

Editor, Bulletin: In recent issues of your paper, in the editorials and in the columnist's comment you have announced, what appears to you to be, a withdrawal on the part of certain aldermen on their previous stand against high rates of interest. As one of these aldermen involved in this apparent withdrawal, I wish to refer to the rescinding of the motion made by Alderman Fry, when he moved that the City would pay to the Provincial Government on its, the Provincial Government's bonds, the same rate of interest as the government was now paying the City of Edmonton on its bonds, held by the city.

These statements in the press led the public to believe, that we who voted for the rescinding of Alderman Fry's motion, did so, merely to please the government and for no other reason. The impression was left that we were not so much concerned with the reducing of interest rates, as we had on so many previous occasions indicated; naturally some of us are desirous of meeting the reasonable needs of our government, but this certainly was not our sole or chief reason for the rescinding of the motion, as we did. We were, and are anxious to reduce the rate of interest on the debt of this province to be paid on our bonds.

On the occasion of the motion when the matter was discussed, some of us expected to accomplish an exchange of bonds, and we are still ready to make the exchange where possible.

In our action in voting for the motion in question we undoubtedly overlooked the legal aspect of what we had done; no sooner had we voted for the motion, than we realized our motion was a nullity, and could be the cause of considerable legal difficulties. Here, as you know, we must proceed and function according to the powers given us under the City Charter. If our Council does not meet the requirements of the City Charter, it is to that extent illegal, and the Charter has it now stands will not permit us, as a council, to alter the rate of interest agreed to be paid on any bonds, apart from this limitation set up by the Charter, we have the further legal difficulty, that to ask one creditor to accept a reduced rate of interest and to allow the other creditors to claim and receive their full rate, is to commit fraud in the legal sense and would not stand law.

Councils are liable to err, and on this occasion we as councillors, made a mistake whether the individuals of that council are willing to admit it or not, but the mistake having been made, we should admit it and say little else; but it might be pointed out here, that it has never been stated in the press just exactly what the mistake was, inasmuch as the public would be, and has necessitated this explanation, so that remedies may be made to the public for acting as we have done.

I hope that most of the people feel and know that I myself, and those on the council who think as I do, have no intention of letting up on our relentless war against high interest rates, but that we intend to fight for reduction to the vanishing point.

May I offer you my thanks in anticipation that you will publish this lengthy letter, but I feel it is necessarily so if the facts are to be presented intelligibly.

CHARLES GOULD,
Alderman.

CHARGING IT UP

It is interesting and important to note that, according to Mayor Robbins, Toronto will endeavor next year to have two-fifths of the city's relief cost taken care of out of current revenue. His year but one-fifth of relief expenditure was charged to current account.—Toronto Globe.

EVERY CITY'S PROBLEM

Johannesburg is certainly prosperous. Nobody goes begging. In trying to disguise that fact. It is more prosperous than it has ever been before. But that is not to say that every Tom, Dick and Harry who is unable to make a living in his own country, or in his own part of this country, can make a living here. Far from it, in fact. There is still a lot of unemployment in Johannesburg. There is more, indeed, than there should be, owing to the fact that jobless men, with little or no qualification to undertake any kind of skilled work, have flocked here in large numbers under the stupid impression that the streets are paved with gold and that all they have to do is pick it from trees waiting to be plucked.—Johannesburg Times.

Rastus: "I's in de minin' business, boss."

NOT PREACHING AS BLIND, SAYS MR. ABERHART

Alberta Premier Occupies Presbyterian Pulpit in Former Home

SEAFORTH, Ont., Dec. 7—A warning the nations of the world are hastening toward Armageddon was sounded last night by Premier William Aberhart of Alberta in a sermon before a congregation that filled First Presbyterian church. The premier enroute to Ottawa, stopped off here to be present for his mother's 84th birthday today.

"Great Britain has stood against it," declared the premier, "and the British people throughout the world should pray the Empire be maintained to prevent crush of the terrible movement in the world.

"You should be on your knees for the next 48 hours that the tide which is sweeping Europe be held in check.

RETAINS INTEREST

"I have not lost interest in the world of God as applied to the present day," he said, "it has been my hobby for many years. In spite of a strenuous public life during the past two years I have loved to snatch a few precious moments to learn what the scriptures say concerning events of the present day."

He cited events in Russia, Italy and the "terrible slaughter Mussolini and Spain have caused," but found a reassuring note in the sweeping return of President Roosevelt in the United States.

"People often wonder that a premier should study the Bible," he continued. "They told me I would have to choose one or the other to be successful. But I say to you, I do not seek premiership. I believe in my Bible."

The premier said he appreciated the opportunity of speaking to the people of his own county. It was not altogether sentiment but a desire to have a complete understanding with them.

"I do not want to bring disrespect upon you people. I am not fading away. I do not preach as a blind. I stood up on a pulpit many years before Social Credit. I am not preaching to cover anything," the premier declared.

Hollywood Gossip

INTIMATE GLIMPSES AND INSIDE STUFF ON THE MOVIE COLONY

By PAUL HARRISON

SHORT takes: Actresses have had male doubles for stunts, but Sonja Henie is the first to have a male stand-in. He's Bert Clark, former Canadian champion, and his job is to f.i.t around the ice, whirling and stopping to spin on predetermined spots while cameras and lights are focused.

Clark's former exhibition skating partner, Margot, appears in this picture, "One in a Million." She's now the wife of the refrigeration engineer who built the studio rink.

There's a report around that Greta Garbo never will make another picture. Probably wrong. She has refused to discuss plans, but the other day she slipped and said, "When I come back to Hollywood—" then halted.

The Robert Taylor-Barbara Stanwyck romance has been fired, apparently, to the welding point.

There's talk of a wedding when their pictures are finished. Incidentally, she'll surprise you in "Banjo on My Knee" with a tap dance—her first on the screen, although she used to be a Follies girl.

NEW CATASTROPHE

Tallulah Bankhead made a secret color screen test, and may star in "Gone With the Wind." Biggest musical of the winter will be a new edition of the "Goldwyn Follies," with George and Ira Gershwin coming to Hollywood to do tunes and lyrics. Darryl Zanuck, envious of "San Francisco's" success, will unearth another civic catastrophe for flicker material and will call it "The Chicago Fire," or "Hot Time in the Old Town," or something.

Kiddie department: And speaking of catastrophes—Shirley Temple has lost another tooth. There's a new head man at the Pat O'Brians —an adopted youngster to be christened Patrick Shaughan O'Brien. Associate producer of the Dionne Quintuplets picture, "Reunion," is Earl Carroll, of all people. Still cornering the cutie market!

SUNDAY TIMES VIGOROUSLY HITS WEDDING

J. L. Garvin Emphatic That Woman's Nationality Of No Concern

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The Sunday Times vigorously opposed marriage between King Edward and Mrs. Wallis Simpson and said the King's decision cannot "be delayed or compromised."

"Servants of the Sunday Times political commentator, warned the King against rebelling "against constitutional advisers."

He added: "An appeal of sentiment to the masses of men already prepossessed in the King's favor would be tremendously strong and might conceivably win. But think of the terrible price of such a victory."

J. L. Garvin, the Sunday Observer's political commentator, called "impossible" a marriage by which Mrs. Simpson would become Queen—but "not for a moment because the remarkable woman concerned is an American."

"Let all decent Americans dismiss from their minds that suggestion," Garvin wrote. "The reasons are of a higher, more inexorable force."

STRAND FILM FARE SETS HOT PACE

One of winter's coldest nights ushered in one of the season's "hottest" shows at the Strand Saturday night and vacant chairs were all warmed by 9 o'clock when Judd Griffith, Empress favorite, stepped in general, and the pulchritudinous Moderenettes in particular, got working.

Aside from an entertaining bill of variety in which the dancing gals took the cash customers all around the world the Strand is showing "Pigskin Parade" one of the outstanding comedy football pictures of the present season. Stu Erwin's great passing is an inspiration and beyond discription. In the picture line also was shown some shots of King Edward on navy inspection. Flashing of the King's feature's upon the screen was the signal for tumultuous applause. Unusual in movie theatres.

Rose Genthon, prima donna, again delighted with her presentation of song, her number being "Lovely To Look At"—and not hard to take.

Riotous comedy was provided in the presentation of an Egyptian melee wherein five members of the orchestra take part "prima donnade" by Joe Mecelli in the role of Cleopatra. He was ably haremized by McAnsh, Van Deelen, Davies and Einstein, cavorting as eunuchs for a shick, conspicuous by his absence. Jud and Judy Griffin were pleasing in their novelty dance, the blonde Judy having made her bow earlier in an Hawaiian Hula number indeed in an agitating costume of cellophane grass. Lil Petrie's dance string was altogether lovely again in fresh and clean though brief but pleasing costumery, their Russian number being an outstanding feature. Kathleen Lewis's solo tapping brought that young artist fresh laurels. The Strand sets a fast pace for flesh shows as well as screen fare this week.

INDIANS ARE NOT ALWAYS DARK-SKINNED

The common conception of Indians is quite upset when one visits Panama or Costa Rica, where one sees Indians that are white of complexion, have blonde hair and blue eyes. Aside from these points, the Indians have the usual Indian features. It is believed that these people are the founded Indians and that their isolation has produced these traits that are different from the North American Indian.

AMUSEMENTS

CAPITOL

"The Charge of the Light Brigade," the Warner Bros. picture co-starring Errol Flynn and Olivia de Havilland, on the screen of the Capitol theatre until Friday opened to a large audience which was stirred to enthusiastic applause by the tremendous drama and humanity of the picture, the sincerity of the acting—and the picturesque beauty of the settings.

The soul-stirring spirit of Lord Tennyson's immortal poem "Charge of the Light Brigade" carries through the picture to the terrific climax—although the tragic love story of the two English lovers who love the same Scottish girl, makes up the real substance of the story. It is at an Army post in India that the idyll of Captain Geoffrey Vickers and Elsa Campbell begins and ends. The ill-fated lovers are unforgettably portrayed by Errol Flynn and Olivia de Havilland.

The happiness of the two is wrecked by the fact that Elsa fails hopelessly in love with Captain Perry Vickers, younger brother of Geoffrey, while the latter is away fighting insurgent tribesmen on the border. It is in India also that many of the most thrilling episodes take place, including border skirmishes and the massacre, by the treacherous Amir of Surisfan, of the entire garrison at Chukoti, including officers, men, women and children.

From thence the exciting action moves to the battle front in the Crimea to which the British troops have been transferred. It is there that Geoffrey, after Elsa's confession that her love is for his brother, saves the latter's life by sending him back to headquarters with a message to the Commandant.

Errol Flynn gives a magnificent performance both as the lover and the fighting warrior who deliberately changes his superior's order of attack, himself leading the Light Brigade into the "mouth of hell"

RIALTO

All the world knows and loves Paul Robeson's lovely voice, particularly as it is heard in such songs as "Ol' Man River."

Now, in his latest film production, "The Song of Freedom" which is at the Rialto until Friday, he sang in no less than four new specially written numbers. With music by Eric Ansell and lyrics by Harold Rye these are the songs now being featured by orchestras and singers all over the world.

Their titles are: "Song of Freedom", "Stepping Stones", "Lonely Road" and "Sleepy River", all of them being featured prominently in this remarkable film production, the scenes of which are set in Africa and Britain.

Not only is the picture a festival of lovely melody but it tells a thrilling and poignant story of a negro who longs to return to his own country, realising his ambition through the means of his voice.

Supporting the great actor-singer are Elisabeth Welch, Esme Percy, George Mozart, Joan Fred Emney and Jenny Dean, as well as a cast of hundreds of black and white players.

EMPRESS

Many of the lines that Adolphe Menjou speaks in "Sing, Baby, Sing," Twentieth Century-Fox picture at the Empress theatre currently, he has known for years. And, although they are spoken with wit and ease, the dialogue writer who is responsible gets no screen credit.

For the author was William Shakespeare and it is from his famous works "Romeo and Juliet" and "Hamlet" that several of Menjou's lines are culled.

Menjou's part in the picture is that of a tired and overworked celebrity who comes to New York to relax by going on one continual spree. In Alice Faye he finds the ideal target at which to hurl the lines of the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet"—and there the fun begins.

Gregory Ratoff, Ted Healy, Patsy Kelly, Michael Whalen and the Ritz Brothers are also featured in "Sing, Baby, Sing."

PRINCESS

Two radio headliners, Bing Crosby and Bob Burns, have leading roles in the newest of the Crosby musicals, "Rhythm on the Range" now at the Princess theatre. The picture features Frances Farmer in the feminine lead, and boasts a cast headed by such outstanding players as Samuel S. Hinds, Warren Hymer, Lucille Webster Gleason and George E. Stone. It also introduces for the first time to screen audiences Martha Raye, dynamic stage comedienne who boasts an acrobatic face and a rapid-fire line of nonsensicality.

"Rhythm on the Range" launches six song hits, all of them currently heard on the radio and in dance halls everywhere. They include "I Can't Escape From You," "The House That Jack Built for Jill," "If You Can't Sing It You'll Have To Swing It," "Empty Saddles," "I'm An Old Cow Hand From the Rio Grande" and "Roundup Lullaby."

June Fraser Is Bride Of Mr. P. Steele

Central United Church manse was the scene of one of the loveliest of early winter weddings on Saturday evening when Jane Marguerite Fraser, only daughter of Mrs. Lillian O. Fraser, became the bride of Patrick Steele, eldest son of Mrs. Margaret N. D. Steele of Mossend, Scotland.

Rev. E. Blake performed the ceremony at six o'clock.

For her wedding the bride chose coral tinted satin over satin, flaring from the knees into double tiers of frills and worn with a trilled cape-effect jacket. A tiny coral rose on her close fitting silver turban echoed the shade of her gown and silver slipper pumps completed her ensemble. Her corsage was of roses.

As bridesmaid Miss Alva Beeson wore a graceful figure in a turkish model of turquoise blue crepe, trimmed in silver metallic and worn with a matching hat.

Mr. Douglas Fraser, brother of the bride, was best man.

Mr. Edward Riel played the wedding music.

A wedding reception was arranged later at the Rose Room in the Mac Edward hotel where Mrs. Fraser received with the bridal party. She was smartly attired in a model in tones of brown, with touches of cream colored satin at the neckline.

Who's Who

MRS. S. H. GANDIER

Interested in the development of fine Canadian womanhood ever since her college days, when she took specialist work in physical training at the University of Toronto Mrs. Gandier early began her association with the guides as captain of a company in the east.

Coming to Claresholm in 1928 Mrs. Gandier was dismayed to find that no physical culture was taught in the schools and undertook to organize classes for the various C.G.I.T. groups, which included practically all of the young girls in the town.

Four years later she came to make her home in Edmonton where she became actively interested in guiding activities, her qualities of leadership being recognized almost immediately in her appointment to the position of Girl Guide Commissioner for the South Side. Further acknowledgement of her executive ability recently when the work of guiding in the city was separated into two parts and she was named divisional commissioner of Edmonton South.

Second vice president of the Women's University Club, Mrs. Gandier has for the past four years been actively associated with the organization, deriving particular pleasure from her participation in the biography and current events of study groups. She enjoys membership too in the Women's Canadian Club. Mrs. Gandier attends Holy Trinity church.

Particularly fond of the outdoors, Mrs. Gandier spends most of her holidays on motor trips through the mountains. Of sporting activities she enjoys especially an occasional game of golf.

Luxury For a Lady

DISTANT THUNDER
Dorothy Quick in The Commonweal

What is this beating, this strange mad beating
Of wings that flutter, that keep repeating
"Though you keep us out with your narrow ways
And ancient creeds and other days
You must let us by, We shall win at length.
Though your bars are strong with an age-old strength."
That is the song that they keep repeating
The wings that flutter with strange mad beating.
And what is this song of shining wonder—
The song of the future's Distant
Thunder.

Varied Program Is Presented By Musical Club

Miscellaneous contributions formed the program given on Saturday at the Women's Musical Club meeting at the Masonic Temple. Numbers were well varied and thoroughly enjoyable from start to last.

Incidentally it was the final meeting of the club for the calendar year. The next meeting will be held on January 16 when Agnes Kelsey, Winnipeg soprano, will be the guest artist.

Saturday's program was notable in that it provided the first opportunity for Helen Gunderson to appear as vocal soloist. One of the younger of the more talented singers, winner of an event at the last musical festival and well known for her pianistic ability, she also proved herself an able singer.

Her sincerity, obvious enjoyment of singing and evident painstaking care in preparation of her numbers made her contribution most welcome. She sang Sowerby's arrangement of John Alley's "Sweet Was the Song", Dellus' "The Homeward Way" and Horsman's "Bird of the Wilderness".

Helen Worden Adams was in her best form in giving a group of piano numbers. Possessed of a tremendous technique and a ripe musicianship, she gave a scintillating performance of Chopin's Five Preludes, opus 28; Two Waltzes, opus 64, No. 1 and opus 69, No. 1 and the first movement of Ludwig Schytte's Sonata opus 53.

In all these she showed herself a truly outstanding player and one who will be always welcome on local programs.

E. M. Gunderson, tenor, whose public appearances have been too few recently, in the best style in singing Schubert's "Benumbed" and Michael Head's "My Sword For the Song" and Sidney Homer's "Requiem" caught the widely varied spirit of these two numbers and gave a most impressive performance.

Dr. Kenneth Neatby, bass, gave a stirring performance of Handel's "Con Furiande and Trembling"; Bethoven's "In Questa Tomba" and Strauss' "I Love But Thee." Seldom has he been in better vocal condition and Saturday evening added an artist at the Musical Club been accorded a warmer reception.

Under the capable direction of Tom Gardner a string and wood wind ensemble played three numbers, Henry Erin's "Serenade"; Brenda Lucas' "Dance" and Bohm's "Tarantella".

In addition to Mr. Gardner, the ensemble included Mrs. Burkewood, violin; Charles Pook, cello; George Bryson, bass; W. G. Wicks, flute; Mrs. E. Price, clarinet and Mark Mortimer, clarinets and Dennis Clayton, piano.

There was a highly artistic performance. Each player a consummate artist on his instrument, the group as a whole was charming, delightful and all too short. Mayerl's "Dicky Pond" was an attractive encore number.

Helen MacGregor and Henry Alack were accompanists.

Isles Society Entertains At Jolly Party

"Old Father Christmas" was guest of honor at a party for a host of his annual parties at the weekend when members of the Orkney, Shetland and Caithness Society entertained at a concert and dance in All Saints parish hall.

Decorations in the Christmas motif were a gay setting for the affair at which Mr. Archibald Bichan, president of the society received with "Santa."

Contributing to a splendid program were Miss Mae McIlhan and Mr. Alexander Thomson were the Misses Garrick, Eunace Healy, Mr. William Smith, and Mr. Jack Jones, vocal soloists; Miss Doris Hodgson, Miss Doris Daly, Miss Marion Sellers and Miss Margaret Everetts pupils of the Helen Shirlaw School of Dancing; Mr. Montford who played piano accordian selections and Master John Milne and Master Keith Macdonald, pipers. Mrs. Sellers and Miss Marion McFarlane were the accompanists.

After supper, which was arranged by Mrs. Jack Burger, Mrs. Harold Smith, Mrs. George Maclean, dancing was arranged.

MRS. HALL IS PRESIDENT OF ST. FAITH'S W.A.

Voicing the appreciation of the group for the splendid service during the past year, Canon C. F. A. Reports of the various activities showed a very successful year.

Officers for the coming year were elected and include: Mrs. J. Hall, president; Mrs. E. Currey, secretary; Mrs. H. Wegerle, treasurer; Mrs. C. Thompson, senior girls; Miss N. Cooper and Miss C. Douglas, junior girls; Mrs. R. Carrington, Little Helpers; Mrs. D. Cooper, offering; Mrs. S. Lee, press representative; Mrs. G. Hall, social secretary. Mrs. J. Coles, fancy work; Mrs. R. S. Neil, novelties; Mrs. R. Bendle, living members and Mrs. White, prayer partner.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas blows up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two vital results. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 65c.

Possible To Train Natural Hair Waves

By GLADYS GLAD

"Do you honestly think that it is possible to train hair to be naturally curly? I'd like to have wavy hair, and I'm willing to devote any amount of time to training my tresses.

"But I want to be sure first that I won't be wasting my time, and that I'll eventually get some results. Can you advise me?

"GRACIE."

I do indeed believe that it is possible to train a lovely, natural wave in a healthy head of hair. As a matter of fact, I've already seen quite a number of successful cases. It is said that the great majority of women have a tendency to curly hair, and that in such instances only a little training is necessary to bring out the normal wave.

But it is even possible to train absolutely straight hair so that it will fall in natural waves. The process requires a great deal of time and attention, but with proper brushing, and frequent steam or finger waves, almost any head of hair can be trained to retain a lovely, natural wave.

"About two months ago I started the reducing course in your booklet 'Be the New Figure' and—well, here I am, 25 pounds lighter, and ever so much happier. You bad more females don't get wise to how much your booklet can do for a poorly shaped figure. However, that's beside the point.

"I've recently been getting terrible styes on my eyes, and they certainly are disfiguring. I've no idea what causes them, or what to do for them, but something certainly should be done. Can you give me any advice?

"HARRIETT."

Any abnormal eye inflammations that tend to become chronic should always be referred to a physician or eye specialist. The eyes are far too sensitive to be submitted to the treatments of an amateur.

Styes are small abscesses that form on the eyelids—generally when the sebaceous glands become inflamed. Tepid, moist poultices of linseed will help to reduce the styes, but to be on the safe side an expert's services should be enlisted in treating them.

"My skin is very dry, and in the weather it chaps very easily. It also disfigures by a number of annoying blackheads. Do you think that I should use creams on my skin?

"KAY."

If you are afflicted with blackheads, a thorough cleansing method will be essential in order to remove these offenders. You should, therefore, give your face a good soap and water cleansing at least once a day. If this cleansing seems too drying, you should use a bit of cold cream or nourishing cream afterward, to restore the natural oil to the skin.

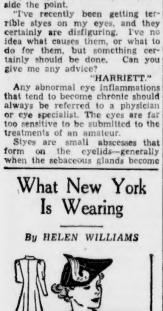

All your other cleansing may be just cream cleansings. And the nightly application of a good, rich, nourishing cream will help greatly to alleviate the chapping and correct the dryness. You should also treat the dry condition internally, adding more of the fatty foods to your diet. A little pure olive oil taken internally each day will help to correct this unpleasant skin dryness.

Skin Food

Maud: I've never heard of a case in which a good cream has actually caused the growth of hair on the face. Lanolin is used in many skin foods, and may itself be employed as one.

Manners Of The Moment

By JEAN LYON

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

Give them a whiff of what's coming.

A couple of our rivals have recently been discussing the problem of how to get your guests to stop drinking cocktails and to come in to dinner. One of them says "Why not do a laughing imitation of a butler?" And the other says, in effect, "Why serve dinner at all?"

We think this is all very silly. The answer is easy. Give them a whiff of the dinner, and they will come them flock into the dining room. Just march into the midst of these happy groups, sniff your platter in your hands, and say, "Smell." Then march out again, and you'll have them all right on your heels . . . like the Pied Piper of Hamelin.

The hostess who can't make her dinner smell better than her cocktails, just shouldn't give dinners. Or maybe she shouldn't serve cocktails. She'll have to work that out by herself.—JEAN.

"If a prospective bride," says this authority, "really wants to know the mind of the man she is thinking of marrying, let her ride with him through a traffic jam and she'll learn things. A half-witted driver through jostling horns, screeching brakes and traffic policemen will bring out all of his temper, nerves, timidity, manners, sportsmanship and give a close-up of the man as he really is. A man may be the perfect gentleman, polite and genial in his office and home, yet a flit with tough traffic will reveal that he is a bully at heart."

These are words of wisdom which would prevent many a fatal matrimonial smash-up if only girls would heed the danger signals that men unconsciously hang out before their very eyes during the days of courtship.

So, girls, when Algernon comes to take you for a joyride, take note of these points: Does he drive up before your house and honk the horn until you come out, and then let you climb into the car by yourself? It shows that he is self-centred and selfish and has no regard for the rights and comforts of others, or else he would not disturb the peace of the neighborhood and wake up everybody in earshot by making a hideous noise. It shows that he is totally lacking in gallantry and chivalry toward women, and that if you marry him he will consider his comfort and convenience before yours. He will expect you to stoke the furnace, do the housework, and be grateful to him for the honor he has done you in marrying you.

Has he gone in debt for a finer car than he can afford? That indicates he is a showoff. He will always be in debt and live beyond his means, and, if you marry him, you will spend the remainder of your life staving off the installment collectors.

Does he brag about his car and think a battered old wreck is finer than a this year's Rolls Royce? He is not a bad man to tie to, for he will always think his wife the most beautiful and wonderful woman in the world just because she belongs to him.

Is he always trading in his car for another make with fresh paint and new streamline and the latest gadgets? He is a bad risk. He will become the philandering husband who always wants to swap his old wife for a new one.

Does he blast his horn, glower at other motorists and swear at pedestrians who get in his way? He has a hair-trigger temper and will make the sort of husband who will fly into a rage and say things that will send his wife in tears from the room every time she buys a new hat, or the cook scorches the soup.

Does he blow continuously on his horn and race his motor? That is a sign of nerves and irritability, and such a man is about as pleasant to live with as a frenzied porcupine.

When there is any sort of a minor accident, does he begin cursing and swearing and bawling out everybody around and blaming every one but himself? He will make the sort of a husband who will fly off the handle and make unreasonable scenes. He will chide children turn out, and the cost of butchers' meat, and the depression. He is the sort of man who always tells that he was driven to drink by his wife and that it was only her extravagance that kept him from being a millionaire.

Is he a road hog? He will take the best of everything at home. He will get his clothes from the best tailor and his wife will buy hers at the basement bargain shop.

Is he a reckless driver? He lacks judgment and prudence and common sense, and though he may seem to be going somewhere in a little while he will end up in a wreck. His family will never know whether they are going to have a filet mignon for dinner or nibble on a crust.

* * *

Is he considerate of the rights of others? Does he take the misadventures of the road with good grace and drive carefully? He is a good sport and will make the sort of a husband who goes fifty-fifty with his wife.

* * *

Does he suffer back-seat driving patiently? Snap him up and rush him to the altar. You have found the husband whose price is above rubies. And you will never get a chance at another one like him.

First Aid TO THE Ailing House

PROTECTION AGAINST TERMITES

By Roger B. Whitman

I am hearing more and more of damage to houses by termites, and from practically all sections of the country. Termites are now known to be the real cause of a destruction of wood that was formerly blamed on dry rot. It is a matter of fact that nature provides termites for the reduction of dead wood to mold. They are part of the scheme of things. They are pests only when they attack wood that mankind wants to preserve. We cannot hope to exterminate termites. Our protection against them is to build our houses in such a way that they cannot be invaded.

Termite nests are always in the ground. In attacking a house, they do not set up nests in the new work, but travel back and forth between the wood and the home nest. Considering the damage that they can do, it seems only rational to build a house in such a way and of such materials that an attack will not be possible.

Foundations should be poured concrete, reinforced in the steel also to prevent cracking. In modern house designs, the first floor is on a level with the ground—or nearly so. This brings the floor beams within easy reach of termites. These beams should therefore be of steel instead of wood. Sills, studs, sheathing and other wood parts are also exposed. For protection, these wood parts should be impregnated with any one of several chemicals that will make them termite-proof. Treated wood can be had through any lumber yard. The price will be somewhat increased, but considering the damage that is avoided, the extra cost can be regarded as insurance, and is certainly a small price to pay.

Termites are of three classes or castes. The largest caste is made up of "workers," which do the damage. A second class is known as "soldiers," protect the workers against the attacks of ants and other enemies. Both of these castes are white; they are blind and never come to the surface. The third class is made up of winged, black "reproductives." Once a year in the spring, occasionally also in the fall, these appear in a great swarm; they flutter about for a brief time, drop their wings, and disappear. A swarm of these insects is a danger signal that no home owner should disregard. He should at once find out whether his house has been attacked. There will be no outside sign on the woodwork; the destruction will all be within and can be learned only by drilling small holes, by pounding, or in some other way that will indicate hollowness of the timber. He may find slender tunnels of clay over the surface of masonry, these being the paths by which the termites circulate from the nest in the ground. Information on how to proceed can be had from a pamphlet issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Washington, D. C. The departments of agriculture of many states also have information.

CLEANING A COPPER TANK

Question—What can I use to clean my copper hot water tank? It has become very dark, and is unsightly.

Answer—Use vinegar with as much salt dissolved in it as will be taken up. Apply the mixture hot, with a cloth or sponge. It will take off the worst of the staining. Follow with plenty of clear water to remove traces of salt. Wind up with any good metal polish.

Mr Whitman regrets that circumstances will not permit the answering of letters. But whenever possible, specific questions will be answered through this column.

CLOSE CALCULATION

On an average, when played at no trumps, the four hands dealt count up to 13 offensive and defensive tricks. In play these four hands yield just 13 tricks. The player holds 4 guarded suits, with a count of seven or more of these probable tricks, provided no other player has yet bid, he should make an opening bid of 2-No Trumps, asking partner to support the call upon a count of more than a single probable trick, unless he has a reasonable suit bid. Today's deal shows just how East calculated that his side probably held game-going strength at no trumps.

	♠8 6 3 2 ♥J 5 5 ♦10 9 6 ♣K Q 7
♠A 8 ♥9 7 4 2 ♦7 5 3 2 ♣J 9 5	N W E S
	♠K J 9 4 ♥K Q 6 ♦A K Q ♣A 7 8
	♠Q 10 7 ♥A 10 3 ♦J 8 4 ♣10 6 5 4

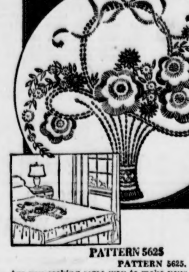

After three passes East made an opening bid of 2-No Trumps. His hand held in direct tricks and promotional values to supplement what dummy might hold, plus 24 probable tricks. That value deducted from 13 probable tricks about the table left 11 probable tricks. This divided by 3, to give dummy's average expectation, was a little better than 3½ probable tricks. To allow for the two tricks shrinkage of the 13 to 11 actual tricks, declarer discarded all fractions, and call the joint hands worth 9 probable tricks. With his two 4-card suits, an Ace and a Jack, West counted about 11 probable playing tricks, and he ended bidding with 3-No Trumps.

The opening lead was the 4 of clubs, from South's only 4-card suit. Dummy's 8 forced North's Q, and declarer won with the Ace. He ran off three diamond tricks, and was fortunate enough to establish a long diamond in dummy. Dummy was in lead with the Ace of spades, and took the sixth trick for declarer with the diamond. North let go a low spade. Declarer discarded his low heart. South also let go a low heart.

Dummy's last spade was led. Declarer's K won the trick, and the 10 falling from South's hand caused declarer to lead the 9 of spades. South's 9 was the first defensive trick. He led a low club. Dummy's 9 forced North's K, for the second defensive

Firmness Guides You When Buying Apples

By MARY E. DAGUE

Time was when a barrel of apples in the cellar and plenty of firewood in the shed promised a jolly winter. Now its steam heat and frequent runs to the corner grocery.

Look for firmness when buying apples. A firm apple is the soul of virtue. Watch out for brown spots. Those spots are the most common defects in the fruit and are called "scalds." It is caused by gasses the apples give off while being shipped or in storage. So look for apples which have been recently delivered or else those wrapped in oiled paper or packed in shredded cork or sawdust. The oil in these wrappings absorbs the gasses.

As a family staple, the apple still holds an affectionate place in the American home. As a night cap, before the fire, it stirs the hearts of poets. And in deep dish pie, it spreads satisfaction and loving kindness across the table.

DEEP DISH APPLE PIE

(For 7-Inch Pie.)

Six medium tart and very firm apples, ¾ to ¾ cup white or brown sugar, depending on tartness of apples, ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon and ¼ teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind.

Grease a deep dish or earthenware baking dish. Pare, core and cut apples into eighths. Arrange layer on bottom of dish, laying sections first close to edge of dish. Pile the rest in as best you can. Mix all the other ingredients together, excepting the butter. Sprinkle this mixture over the apples. Then dot with butter. Use your favorite and most successful pastry recipe. Make a round of pastry 1 inch wider in diameter than the top of the baking dish. Wet the edges, then lay it across the apples. Press the edges down securely and trim off any surplus. Cut a few slits in the top crust to allow steam to escape. Bake in very hot oven for half an hour, then for another ten minutes in a moderately slow oven.

Hot deep dish apple pie is one of those things vanilla ice cream was born to serve.

What To Do

When a man is introduced to a woman does she shake hands with him? Does a woman rise when introduced to another woman? I never know just what to do under these circumstances.

MISS E. T. E.

Answer—No, a woman usually just slightly bows her head and says "How do you do." But when a man is introduced to a woman and he extends his hand, it would be very rude for her not to offer her hand also, and should the man be some one of whom she has heard a great deal from some mutual friend, then she should voluntarily extend her hand, indicating that the introduction is really only a formality. When a woman is introduced to another woman the rule is that if the hostess is standing when she makes the introduction the parties introduced should stand, too. Here again there is an exception and an older person may remain seated even though her hostess is standing.

Your Children

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

I like to talk about tempers. It is the most interesting subject in all psychology. It is the devil's way to get his revenge on humanity. He picks, nearly always, the inferiority folk for his pawns.

O. R. Barton

Who doesn't love to get mad? I never feel quite so happy when I am in a rage and can tell people exactly what I think of them. At other times I am afraid. I go for months thinking this and that, and then when outraged and suddenly furious. I find the blood rushing to my head with that lovely "don't-give-a-darn" feeling, and out I go and tear things up right. Oh, how grand it is, not to be afraid!

SULKS CLING TO THEIR JOY

And if I am this way, the most gentle of souls, I assure you, eating out of anybody's hand, you must be this way too. I am not sparing a soul today. In truth every mother's son of us, and daughter too, just loves to get mad. It is far more fun than laughing. Or even eating. It is an orgy demanded by the suppressions, and they have to get out or else we'd go mad. So we think.

And therefore, my bretheren and sisteren, we need to think about Tommy's temper, or Lucy's sulks. Yes, sometimes the possessor of a good sound rage, prefers to wallow in her feelings, and keep her joy for a day or a week, instead of letting it go all at once. She loves to make others suffer or worry about her as long as she can. Give me the silver volcano every time, rather than the brooding one that keeps everybody jumpy and never announces which way its lava may run.

But neither are easy to live with. Any kind of "temperamental" people can spoil the peace of mind of others, whether they nurse a chronic grouch or blow up periodically.

Righteous wrath has certainly a place in the scheme of things. To get healthily indignant about something is man's right. But this is not temper. And it is temper we are speaking about.

Sometimes children are unhappily placed. Their daily experience is irritating, either at home, at school or in their play life. This is conducive to temper, whether the parent perceives the cause or not. Children cannot always be sunny, we must admit. If they are ill or weak physically they will often be cross. I think this belongs to the class of protest against unfair conditions and has a legitimate excuse.

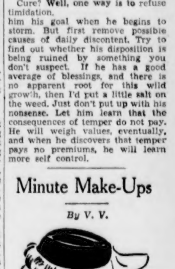

OUTBURSTS ARE ATTEMPT AT INTIMID

But, too often, it is the other way, and the child who has no reason to blow up does so for the reasons above. He just cannot feel important enough without getting mad. He cannot get his way, as he wants it, and rather than listen to reason or let someone else have a chance, he resorts to the bully method of intimidation.

Cure? Well, one way is to refuse intimidation. him his goal when he begins to storm. But first remove possible causes of daily discontent. Try to find out whether his disposition is being ruined by something you don't suspect. If he has a good average of blessings, and there is no apparent root for his wild growth, then I'd put a little salt on the weed. Just don't put up with his nonsense. Let him learn that the consequences of temper do not pay. He will weigh values, eventually, and when he discovers that temper pays no premiums, he will learn more self control.

138th Battalion Association Has Annual Reunion

Renewing old friendships and recalling memories of days in France, members of the 138th Battalion Association, gathered in the Royal George Hotel Saturday evening at the annual reunion. In the unavoidable absence of the president, Gerald O'Connor, the chair was taken by H. Wilson.

Col. W. F. W. Carstairs entertained the gathering with stories of early days in the North West Mounted Police, while Col. Louis Scott recalled experiences with the Princess Pats in France.

Unity among returned men's organizations was stressed by Maj. W. R. McLaren, president of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion. He also urged all ex-servicemen to join the Legion. Chief of Police A. G. Shute was also a guest speaker.

Entertainment was provided by Harry McPherson and Jack Radcliff. The association plans to hold a smoker early in the New Year.

CALGARY OIL STOCKS AGAIN IN SPOTLIGHT

Issues Traded Actively On Toronto and Calgary Exchanges

With traders evincing the same keen interest in oil stocks that has been maintained since Foundation Petroleums No. 1 well came into production last Wednesday, petroleum issues traded actively at firm prices on the Toronto and Calgary boards and held the spotlight in local board room chatter Monday.

News on the street centered in the announcement of three new wells to be drilled by Anglo-Canadian Development and Holding Co., Ltd., two of them on Okalta acreage and one on Calgary and Edmonton acreage. Contracts for this drilling have been let and operations will commence as soon as equipment can be moved and installed.

ON OKALTA PROPERTY

The wells on Okalta property are Firestone Petroleums on L.S.D. 13, Sec. 16, Tp. 18, Range 2, west of 5 and Monarch Royalties on L.S.D. 9, Sec. 20, Tp. 18, west of 5. The well on C. and E. property is Prairie Royalties on L.S.D. 16, Sec. 17, Tp. 18, Range 2, west of 5.

Calgary and Edmonton stock led the field in active trading on the Toronto exchange, holding at a steady price around $2.70, with Home also active at $1.70 to $1.90, on news of its purchase of large acreage on the west side of present mapped structure. Okalta was active at a price of about $1.05, on a level with the previous close.

MAY INSERT TUBING

In sketchy market gossip on the spotlight issues, it was stated that, in view of prolonged bailing at Sterling No. 3, Calgary authorities commented that possibly tubing will have to be inserted in the hole to insure maximum production. Rumors were current that samples of oil taken from the well had tested in the heavy crude class but no figures were available.

With Foundation clearing itself to the satisfaction of officials, possibilities of achieving the estimated production through tubing the well were being discussed. No difficulty is anticipated in operation through the bailer, stuck 6,010 feet from the top of the well, as the five-inch hole drilled through the vessel allows plenty of room for lowering the tubes.

Some gas with a naphtha odor was reported from the Roxana well during the past few days. Drilling is 300 feet in the limestone, at a total depth of 1,330 feet.

TO DRILL NEW WELLS

The Okalta program at present calls for drilling of 15 to 17 wells, on a royalty basis of 10 per cent for production up to 500 barrels and 15 per cent on production of more than 500 barrels. This company is also drilling a well itself.

In its new purchases of several thousand acres of oil leases, extending for 18 miles, from township 18 on the south to township 21 on the north, on the west side of structure, Home Oil has paid higher prices than have been paid for oil land since 1926, it was learned from S. H. Roe, at N. Bawlf Grain Co., Ltd. Home will again be considered one of the major developing companies in Turner Valley as result of this, Mr. Roe believed.

BOARD WOULD BUY UNIT FOR POWER PLANT

Willing To Finance Up To $20,000—22 Apply For Superintendency

Providing the city guarantees the sinking fund board that payments into the fund will be maintained, the board is prepared to finance the purchase of a 15,000 kilowatt turbo-generator for the Edmonton power plant at a cost of $215,019, it was reported Monday by commissioners. This question as well as other phases of the local power situation, including the appointment of a new superintendent for the plant, will be dealt with by council at a special meeting called for Monday.

Person & Co., of England, whose tender for the equipment has been accepted by the city, is prepared to supply the unit on the instalment plan, payments extending over a period of 18 months providing a down payment of $40,000 is made.

FIVE INTERVIEWED

The sinking fund board is willing to finance the purchase of the unit to the extent of $220,000 on condition that this sum is repayable to the board in five equal annual instalments with interest at five per cent. In order to accomplish this the city would hand over to the board $20,000 from bonds now sufficient to cover the purchase price. These would be redeemed over the proposed five-year period.

MANY APPLY

Twenty-two applications have been received by the city for the post of power plant superintendent. These include the name of Edmonton men: Vernon Pearson, engineer for the Royal Alexandra hospital; Wm. Darby, former chief engineer at the plant and at present acting superintendent, and Ralph Couper, technical assistant at the plant. Applications have also been received from other parts of Canada.

"It is urgent that the position should be filled at the earliest possible date and your commissioners wish to have directions of council in this matter," commissioners report.

WHEAT KING FETED HERE

A complimentary luncheon was given Herman Treble, Peace River grain grower who has astonished the world with his wizardry in wheat growing, by John Walter, president of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, Monday, at the Edmonton Club.

The purpose of the luncheon," Mr. Dower explained, "was to find out what the Wheat King thought about the various proposals now before the public to build highways into the Peace River country. Many of us thought that if the Alberta road were not completed before the mid-of-the-year, the Peace River territory would end by having two bad roads and not even one good one."

Among the guests present at the luncheon were Fred Norris, E. T. Love, J. G. Butler, president of the Alberta Motor Association, John Blue, J. D. Dower, chairman, and several members of the council of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce.

SICK WARDEN FLOWN TO CITY

The patient on the flight was accompanied by Dr. J. C. Lewis of Fort Chipewyan and Mrs. Dent.

Six applications for pensions were dealt with by a quorum of the Canadian Pension Tribunal which opened sittings Monday at the Pensions office, South Side. In all 80 cases are scheduled for hearing. SLIGHT LET-UP IN COLD SPELL

With the wind in the south-west and a forecast of "moderating" from the weather station on Monday morning, a promise of a slight let-up in the freezing campaign is given to shivering citizens. The highest point reached by the thermometer on Sunday was 6 below zero, registered from 4 to 8 p.m., while the lowest temperature recorded up up to 9 a.m. Monday was 10 degrees below, registered at 3 a.m. By 8 a.m. the thermometer had eased up to 4 below. Probable light snow is to accompany the moderating temperatures.

Temperatures generally have risen in the near north, the lowest 8.30 a.m. reading being 25 below, at Keg River, and the highest reading at that time being 2 above, at Pelican. Safe crossings are being made on the ice at Mirror Landing, while the Smoky River is frozen over at Grande Prairie, but is not yet safe.

Customs, Excise Collections Up

In 1935 collections amounted to $1,729 616.59, compared with $1,710,928.99 for the eleven month period ending November, and an estimated revenue of $1,888,176.79 for the 12 months of 1936

YULE MAIL OF FT. VERMILION ON NORTH RUN

Johnny Bourassa Leaves Peace River on Arduous Trip to Post

PEACE RIVER Dec. 7.—With almost three tons of mail, representing the Christmas mail for Fort Vermilion, Johnny Bourassa left with two trucks for the first lap of his northern trip on Saturday as far as the third Battle River, from which point the cumbersome loads will be loaded on either sleighs or wagons for the long overland haul.

There is neither sleighing or wheeling in this district and, should snow be scant beyond the Battle river, wagons will have to be used. If so progress will naturally be slow and hard as the November summer-like weather, that furnished considerable rain, has made side roads difficult and the extreme cold of the past week has frozen the chewed up roads into rock-like formation.

Ice on the Peace River has just about ceased to run and will fasten any moment, thus representing the latest freeze-up that there will have been other years where the freeze-up has occurred in early November, only to break up again and run in mid-december, but the presence today of the river is the latest since 1917.

Farmers are taking things easy after the long spell of mild weather which ended last week when plowing was practically all completed for next spring. Little grain is moving, especially from the outlying sections, as roads are not fit for horses and, as there is only a light snow which does not permit sleighing. The condition also makes it impossible to load wagons for result a shortage of wood with a good demand in town also presents a problem.

ASK PERMIT FOR TOBOGGAN SLIDE ON SOUTH SIDE

Application for a license to construct and operate a single-track toboggan slide on 109 street, north of 88 avenue, has been made to the city by M. Noyer and will be considered by council at a special meeting, Monday.

Subject to approval by council, an agreement between the applicant and the city would provide for a license to cover the 1936-37 season and also the 1937-38 season, provided the operation of the slide during the forthcoming winter proved satisfactory.

Provision is made for an indemnity bond being furnished by the license in an amount of not less than $20,000 in respect of any one person and $40,000 in respect of any one accident.

ALEX. KUNKA, 7, NOW CONSCIOUS AFTER 16 DAYS

Unconscious for 16 days following an accident in which he was critically injured when struck by a car driven by Francis D. Lavallee, 9537 108 avenue, while playing at the south end of the C.N.R. subway at 104 avenue and 97 street, seven-year-old Alex. Kunka, 9639 103 avenue, regained consciousness on Sunday afternoon at the Royal Alexandra hospital.

His attending physician, Dr. Joseph Megas, reported that the boy showed remarkable improvement on the week-end but although he is conscious he is still unable to speak.

"Since his admittance to the hospital, the injured youngster suffered a hemorrhage of the brain and various other injuries which paralyzed his left side," said Dr. Megas, "but he has fully recovered from all these effects.

"He can sit up and feed himself, and act normal in every respect except that he is unable to use his sense of speech. He should, however, overcome this defect in the near future."

John Workum Of Calmar Dies Here

John Workum, 82, of Calmar who has farmed in that district for the past 41 years, died in an Edmonton hospital Sunday. He was born at Lazy, Austria, in 1854.

He leaves his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Mary Sych, of Glydhurst and Mrs. Polly Fryer, of Edmonton, and four sons, J. M. Workum, of Colinton, Mike Workum, of Calmar, Stephen Workum, of Colinton, and Steve Workum, of Boyle, a sister Mrs. Pyrch of Sprucedale and two sisters in Poland, 38 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be held Thursday at 9 a.m. from the family residence to the Greek Orthodox church at Calmar, when Father Kunernisky will officiate, and interment will be made in the Sprucedale cemetery. Foster and McGarvey will be in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Routine business was given as the reason for his visit to Edmonton by Roy Beavers, Calgary, who arrived here Monday. He is registered at the Macdonald hotel.

No Clause In City Charter Empowering Interest Reduction

There is no provision in the Edmonton charter which expressly or by implication empowers council to alter or reduce interest rates either on bonds or any other interest-bearing contracts into which the city has entered, according to a legal opinion handed to Mayor Joseph A. Clarke, K.C., Monday by City Solicitor Thomas Garside.

I Saw Today

Mr. Garside's report was an answer to several questions by the mayor as to Edmonton's powers in connection with the proposed reduction in bond interest rates. The solicitor holds that it would be necessary to obtain proper legislative authority to accomplish this.

Outlining steps which would have to be taken toward lower rates, Mr. Garside refers to the Act passed at the second session of the provincial legislature which sets three per cent as the maximum rate of interest which can be collected on municipal debentures. "Should council decide to request the provincial government to proclaim the statute mentioned this could be done by resolution," he reports.

If, however city council decided to ask for the necessary legislative authority for reduction of rates applying to bonds, a petition and an application could be presented to the government in the form of a proposed amendment, signed and sealed by council's charter amendment (bylaws) committee.

FORTH LEAVES

It was reported Monday that J. E. Fortin, Toronto representative of eastern holders of Edmonton's bonds and who has been here for several days, left the city over the week-end for Victoria. Mr. Fortin has been conducting a survey of Edmonton's financial position following the city's request for a cut in debenture interest rates, and will undertake a similar survey in the coast city.

Matt Berry Wings Way To Carry Aid to Marooned Bishop and Party

Rushing food supplies to Rt. Rev. Peter Falaise, Roman Catholic coadjutor bishop of the Mackenzie diocese, and his party, who are camped at Hornaday river, in Darnley bay, on the Arctic coast, 700 miles east of Aklavik, Pilot Matt Berry of Canadian Airways today is flying up the Thunder river which empties into the east side of the Mackenzie river, between Fort Norman and Aklavik.

The missionary bishop and his party were marooned late in August when their schooner, Our Lady of Lourdes, was blocked by ice and pulled out of the ocean at Inman river, 75 miles east of Pearce point.

WALKED OVERLAND

They walked overland to Letty Harbor and since then are reported to have started by dog team for Aklavik. Reported to be short of supplies, Bishop Falaise has sent out word, through a department of marine radio station in that region, that aid must be sent in by plane.

Pilot Matt Berry will take food for the party and fly them out to Aklavik. From there he will bring Bishop Falaise out to Fort Smith, after flying Mrs. Falaise south with the Anglican missionary at Copperminе, and her three-months-old baby to Coppermine. It is likely that Bishop Falaise later will come out to Edmonton.

CARRYING CHRISTMAS MAIL

On his present flight north, Pilot Berry is carrying the Christmas mail for Aklavik, Tuktoyaktuk and Coppermine. He landed at Fort Norman on Saturday.

SILVER QUEEN CREW FLOWN TO CITY SATURDAY

Having spent more than a month at Fort Resolution, where they were stranded when the M. S. Silver Queen was frozen in at the mouth of Slave river on its final trip of river trip, 11 men of the Northern Transportation company's boat and base crews were flown to Edmonton Saturday by Pilot Stan Mac-Millan, Mackenzie Air Service.

Members of the crew who arrived were W. R. Johnston, G. A. Badger, A. Davidson, J. S. Stewart, M. Adams, R. Hamilton, Finson, R. Skoglund, H. J. C. Minkett, S. Cameron and P. Pewarchuk.

Also arriving in the plane was D. R. MacDougall, timekeeper at the Burwash-Yellowknife mining camps, Yellowknife bay.

Pilot MacMillan left for the north again on Sunday, spending Sunday night at Fort Smith. On Monday he was expected to fly down to Resolution and return with the balance of the transportation men. Pilot Harry Hayter also flew from Edmonton to Fort Smith on Sunday.

On Saturday Pilot Gil McLaren flew to Goldfields, taking Mrs. H. J. Metzger and her baby. Mrs. Archie Jamieson, Rupert Fernley and C. Bothwell.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

At a recent meeting of the Alberta and North West Chamber of Mines it was decided to ask the federal government to issue a large quantity of silver dollars to commemorate the King's coronation next summer. The chamber claims that the souvenir issue would heighten the popularity of silver in Canada, thereby encouraging the development of silver mining. The Inquiring Reporter asked "What do you think of the suggestion?" And here is what they thought:

ART KRAMER, advertising specialist: It sounds like a good idea. And while they are at it, why not run off some souvenir 50 cent, 25 cent and ten cent pieces, too. A lot of good could be done by giving them away to all those who ask for them.

GEORGE W. ROBERTS, manager: I think it's a good idea. They should increase the demand for silver and thus shove up the price a little, this would certainly encourage mining. It would also help if they made the coins of pure silver.

RONALD PARSONS, engineering student: That's an idea. If they make the issue large enough it might be a real help to the silver market. In any event, they would make nice mementoes.

ART BRYCE, teacher: Fine. It would undoubtedly prove a boost to the silver market. And incidentally it should prove quite a help to the leather market, too—you know—leather pockets to carry your silver dollars in.

HAROLD WOODSWORTH, student: I'm in favor of anything that will help to bring back good times. If they think this will help them it would be a very fine thing if they were to try it.

DONNIE WARES, commerce student: Go 'way. I want to study.

CHANT LEAVES FOR CAPITAL

Hon. W. N. Chant, minister of agriculture, left on Sunday night for Ottawa where he will join Premier William Aberhart and Hon. Charles Cockroft, provincial treasurer in attending the dominion-provincial conference called by Premier Mackenzie King, opening on Wednesday.

Premier Aberhart left on Wednesday, going by way of Toronto and Hon. Mr. Cockroft left on Friday night.

Hon. Mr. Chant was accompanied by L. C. Charlesworth, director of water resources while J. F. Percival, deputy provincial treasurer accompanied Hon. Mr. Cockroft. Hon. Mr. Chant will remain over to attend the agricultural parley called by Hon. J. J. Gardiner, dominion minister of agriculture.

Charge Is Laid Following Crash

A charge of negligent driving was laid against George Mansell, 9223 111 avenue, by police traffic officers following an accident at the corner of 118 avenue and 82 street Sunday afternoon in which a car driven by Mansell, crashed into a milk wagon driven by Walter Dankow, of the West Edmonton Dairy.

According to reports, Mansell was driving his team on 82 street when at the intersection of 118 avenue Mansell's car rounded the corner at a fast rate of speed and skidded into the team. Both horses were badly cut and the car was damaged considerably. Frightened, the team bolted and galloped 100 yards or so before they came to an abrupt halt when they crashed into a telephone pole. Neither Dankow or Mansell suffered injuries.

PROSPECTORS FLY OUT IN OPEN PLANE

Don and Gordon McLaren Stormbound in North for Three Days

Landing at the Edmonton airport in their light open biplane Friday afternoon, after being stormbound for three days on a small lake 130 miles due south of Goldfields, Don and Gordon McLaren, well known aerial prospectors and members of the widely known McLaren brothers' quintet, arrived here after a season of intense activity in the Yellowknife, Gordon lake and Dinty lake mineral fields.

LOADED WITH ORE

Their packs were loaded with ore samples from Gordon lake which were studded with rich showings of visible gold from properties they had staked for the AX Syndicate. Panning and sampling on these properties is being carried on by the Vic-Mac Syndicate, under direction of Bill Brown, mining engineer, Don McLaren said, and showings so far are highly satisfactory.

Don and Gordon McLaren spent the last few weeks in the Dinty lake area, north of Goldfields, where they have staked 21 claims in the new nickelite area, which is reported to be the richest and most extensive find of its kind in the north.

Both McLaren brothers' faces were badly frost-bitten from the long flight in the open plane on Friday in sub-zero weather. They will leave for Toronto Monday night to return in the spring to the north.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY

"The new find at Gordon lake made by Emil Dagenais for Karl Springer Syndicate is the most important recent discovery," Don. said. "He has done some sampling and got fairly consistent panning with fair width and quite a length on the showing."

Asked if distance to the northern fields would greatly increase cost of production in mining development, Don stated that transport to water courses gave the fields a much more favorable position than many Ontario mines now operating profitably.

The other brothers, Ian, Duncan and Archie, will be out at home as they can get plane transportation, Don. reported.

NOBLE ACTIVITY NOW NOTICEABLE MINISTER SAYS

Speaking on the "Adventure of Faith," Rev. H. A. McLeod in Robertson Church Sunday said he considered the idea that the modern world has sacrificed its passion for glamorous and heroic enterprise, and said that on the contrary noble activity was now noticeable in the realm of the mind and spirit.

"It is seen that life has become plastic, the old order has passed away; there is a new field before us, with no landmarks; we are all adventurers, it is the most enchanting age in history, in its newness and opportunity; man is at the crossroads; in the completeness of our ruin, lies our hope," Rev. McLeod said.

"But for the Christian there is always the "veracity of insight." There is the faith by which we see the real meaning and the deepening of this. As Abraham went out into a new land with no guides but the experience of God to lead him, so, this generation, doing the same, will experience courage and achieve meaning in life.

Fosdick recently said: "Sir Isaac Newton was writing the 'Principia' his book of mathematics in Cambridge while James II had all England by the ears with his political experiments." The revolution is forgotten, but not the "Principia."

"Edward VIII has the world by the ears in a most constitutional crisis; that will be forgotten along with the other crises of the kind that flame and die, but the quiet, heroic adventuring of humble people in their ordinary spheres, where they think and act with faith and hope, resting in God through Christ, will prevail as the meaningful over the centuries," Dr. McLeod concluded.

Woman Victim Of Thief In Cafe

A city woman reported to police that her purse was stolen from a booth in a Jasper avenue cafe about 5 p.m. Saturday. She left the booth for a few minutes and when she returned her purse, containing a considerable amount of money and personal effects, had disappeared.

BEST IN THE WEST

HALF-ACRE in EDEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MARCIA CANFIELD, daughter of wealthy PHILIP CANFIELD, meets BRUCE McDOUGALL, artist, shortly after the mysterious disappearance of FRANK KENDRICK, to whom Marcia had been engaged. When shortages are found in Kendrick's business accounts, Marcia is more shocked than heartbroken. She realizes she was never in love with him.

McDougall is attentive until DOROTHY OSBORN, who dislikes Marcia, leads him to believe Marcia is engaged to another man.

There is a bank holdup and police commandeer the Canfield car to follow the bandits. The car is wrecked and both Marcia and her father are injured. McDougall, driving with Dorothy, arrives on the scene and takes Marcia and her father to the hospital.

Their injuries are slight. Although Marcia's arm is in a sling, she takes part in an amateur play a short time afterward. A New York producer attends the performance and offers Dorothy a part in his new production.

Marcia plans a party for Dorothy. JOHN WADDELL, cousin of Marcia's friend, HELEN WADDELL, is among the guests. Bruce McDougall assumes that Waddell is Marcia's fiance.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXV

MARCIA found McDougall and John Waddell in the billiard room. She had been looking for McDougall ever since the last guest had arrived, hoping to have a moment alone with him, to thank him personally for what he had done on the night of the accident—an acknowledgement she had not yet succeeded in delivering.

The two men had the small billiard room to themselves. The clusters of guests in the other room were still occupied in extending their congratulations to Dorothy Osborn, and with the small talk which forms the greatest entertainment for gatherings of the sort Marcia stood in the doorway watching the players for a moment or two before they were aware of her. McDougall was attempting a difficult shot and Waddell was watching intently. Muffing it, McDougall stood back, and saw Marcia.

"Go on with the game," she said, but Waddell put down his cue.

"With a perfectly nice hostess present, all to ourselves?" he taunted. "No, ma'am; the game can wait, can't it, McDougall?"

"I've been wanting to speak with Mr. McDougall alone," Marcia began.

Then, exit Waddell."

"No, no, John. It's just like being alone, to have you here."

"Thanks, ever so much!"

"Oh—I mean the waddells are almost like members of the family!"

Don't mind me," McDougall thought; "how do you suppose I'm feeling?"

"My dear lady," said Waddell, "in return for the insulting part of your remarks, let me say that I am henceforth on this gentleman's side in any exchange between you. Go on with your base designs, which you came here to accomplish in secret. But if you attempt to harm one hair of his head, I warn you . . ."

"Mr. Waddell, of the Windy City," murmured Marcia, "I don't know why I let you in on this at all. Mr. McDougall is the one who picked us up and got us to a hospital on the night of the accident, John. And he never came around to be thanked prettily. I telephoned him and I wrote him, but I've never had the satisfaction of hearing him say 'Don't mention it' or 'You're quite welcome' or anything of the sort."

"Perhaps he regretted what he'd done," suggested John brightly.

The familiar McDougall blush had returned to the object of conversation, but his embarrassment over the apparent necessity for saying either "Don't mention it" or "You're quite welcome" was relieved by the arrival of Joan.

With the notion that Marcia's first dance rightly belonged to Waddell, whom he had mentally tagged as her fiance, McDougall would have stood dumbly by had not Joan seized the visitor for herself, after having punished the artist so heartily in the ribs as to propel him, literally, into Marcia's arms, the pleasure of the ensuing dance being somewhat marred by the pain of the blow.

"I do thank you, ever so much," Marcia was saying when McDougall became conscious of anything except the fact that he was dancing with her. "I have been wanting to say that to you, in person, for ever so long."

For the while, at least, McDougall was, in obedience to his own command, snapping out of it. Some self-assurance returned, some cheerfulness.

"Don't mention it' and 'You're quite welcome'" he quoted, laughing at her. "Besides that, what else could you have expected from any person who happened on the scene at the moment I did?"

A strange young man, thought Marcia—though, indeed, his logic was unassailable.

Someone quickly cut in on their dance.

McDougall, in turn, cut in on Dorothy Osborn's partner. He recalled as they danced, his feeling of obligation to her for the dinner date broken by Marcia's accident, and he wondered, with some amusement, whether he was now able to repay that debt to a woman who since had found herself on the threshold of a Broadway career, and who therefore was a different woman than the one who had so kindly offered the hospitality of her home to a newcomer in the village.

He did not know the new Dorothy, any more than he had suspected the old.

He asked about her forthcoming work on the stage.

Rehearsals were to start soon, she told him, for a new Lloyd Burtis play, in which she was to have a better part than she had dared hope. She was, of course, both frightened and thrilled at the prospect. "A good deal," she said, "like the bride in one of your sketches I saw in the newspaper a week or so ago—do you remember the one?"

The idea of a gift occurred to McDougall, a gift which she might care for as marking her arrival on Broadway.

"Would you," he asked, "if you can spare the time, dress as you will appear in the part and let me do a portrait sketch of you? It won't be the world's greatest art work, but perhaps it will be your first portrait, and you can keep it to laugh at when you have acquired a bigger and better collection."

Dorothy was more genuinely flattered than he would have believed. Broadway—that was ahead, but the attentions of friends and neighbors of Bobbs Neck were in the present, and McDougall's offer was far from among the least.

They arranged to meet on Monday afternoon for the sketch.

John, meanwhile, had compelled Mike to dance with her, and McDougall cut in "with a sigh of relief," she said, "from my darling husband."

"How goes it?" Joan asked, looking up at McDougall with a glance which he, being inexperienced, did not know was analytical.

"It goes grand," he replied.

Immediately a man cut in. Ignoring the face Joan made at him over the newcomer's shoulder, the artist found his way through the crowd and broke in on Helen's dance.

"Thanks, stranger," said Helen. "The man you supplanted was giving me some tough walking. And would you do me a further favor? As one of the hostesses, there are a few things I could be seeing to. If you'll drop me off over near the door I'll leave you for just a couple of minutes, and when I come back I'll bring you something to drink and be ever so sweet to you for your kindness."

Obediently McDougall pushed toward the door she had indicated. In the hall she showed him the library.

"Make yourself comfortable by the fire in there, if you like," she said. "I'll only be a moment."

McDougall went into the still, book-lined room and stretched luxuriously in a great sofa before the fireplace. The sound of the music was faint. No one else was here, but he heard voices from another room beyond, a sunroom or conservatory, he thought, reached by doors on either side of the library fireplace. A woman said something, and it passed over McDougall without listening, but he heard Mike Brandt's reply.

"You could afford it, sister," said Mike. "What's a mere thousand bucks in the career of Mr. and Mrs. Horton? And after all, what would you have done had they didn't pay? As you tell the story yourself, Waddell hollered for help and Marcia screamed out to Chicago. But the whole scheme went haywire. It fizzled before they could tackle it. Why don't you forget it? Why complain? I thought we came in here to rest our feet."

"Well, having lost a thousand dollars, it seems to me I'm entitled to complain," said Mrs. Horton.

"You've used up $1100 worth of complaining in my hearing alone," said Mike. "The account's overdrawn."

A long silence followed and McDougall was uncomfortably wondering whether he could be classed as an eavesdropper when Helen Waddell reappeared with two glasses in her hands and joined him on the sofa. Apparently they were not heard by those in the next room, for the woman spoke again.

"I just wonder," she said, "why Mr. Waddell's here. Has he something new to tell Marcia, do you suppose?"

Helen's sudden immobility seized McDougall's attention as surely as if she had grasped his arm without warning. He found a blazing anger in her eyes.

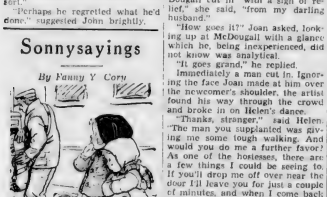

"Don't ask me!" Mike was saying. "I have a very good mind to find out," Mrs. Horton insisted.

"In debating the first few words of your last remark," said Mike, "permit me to take the negative."

HUGH MOLSON, former political secretary of the Association of India Chamber of Commerce, one-time member of parliament for the South Wales constituency of Doncaster, and student of world affairs, will be heard over the national network of the Canadian Radio Corporation on Dec. 7, at 8:30 p.m. Edmonton Time. He will be speaking under auspices of the National Council of Education and the subject of his address will be "India and her Position in the Empire." Inasmuch as India is more or less a question mark to most people, a talk by Molson at this time should be very enlightening.

PREMIER BALKS LABOR REQUEST UPHOLDING KING

Member Wedgwood Creates Scene Asking About Abdication

LONDON, Dec. 7.—Prime Minister Baldwin refused a Labor request in the House of Commons today to reaffirm parliament's allegiance to the King "no matter what happens."

The motion had been put by Col. Josiah Wedgwood, Independent and former Labor member, who last week led the Commons' opposition to the government's stand against possible marriage between the King and Mrs. Wallis Simpson.

Colonel Wedgwood, his request refused, created a scene by jumping up and asking:

"What about the fateful, final step of abdication?"

He declared he hoped such a step would not be taken.

Loud cries of "Order! Order!" immediately arose from the benches to interrupt Wedgwood who angrily demanded from the Speaker on what grounds he was forbidden to introduce a supplementary question.

ABDOMINAL FLESH MAKES HAND FOR MAN

Surgical Science Performs Remarkable Feat of Skin Grafting

GREENEVILLE, S.C., Dec. 7.—Surgeons here encased Dewey Wrinkle's crushed hand in an abdominal incision to allow the skin to grow over the bones and restore it to usefulness.

Wright, a 32-year-old textile worker, fell beneath a train on Sept. 24. When he reached the hospital there was nothing left of his hand but a few bones.

HEALING NOW

Today, damaged but healing rapidly, he had a hand, and a thumb and an index finger as well. Physicians said that after exercise treatments, he can go back to his loom.

Surgeons made a vertical incision six inches long in Wrinkle's abdomen, about a quarter of an inch deep for four inches, and inserted the bony hand.

Arm and body were placed in a cast, and the doctors stood back for two weeks to await results.

GREW TO BONES

Then the cast was taken off, and some time later the surgeons sliced the tissue from around the sides of the hand, freeing it from the abdominal encasement. The abdominal skin, lined, as they hoped, grown to the hand bones.

Then, from Wright's hip, the surgeons said they transferred bits of flesh to the palm of his hand.

PREMIER URGED TO CARRY OUT PEOPLE'S WISH

Midnapore U.F.A. Local Demands Aberhart Fulfill Promises

CALGARY, Nov. 7—Premier Aberhart and his Social Credit government are being given the rush by the Midnapore U.F.A. local. A general meeting of this body declared that the premier had been given an express mandate to abolish poverty in Alberta by increasing purchasing power and passed a resolution urging him to consummate his avowed objectives without further delay.

The resolution is as follows:

"Whereas our provincial government at the last election was given a mandate to abolish poverty in Alberta by increasing consumer purchasing power by an issue of dividends to all bona fide citizens, and by other mechanisms, through the use of our social credit.

"And whereas the Premier Aberhart has asked that from 15 to 18 months be given for the setting up of the necessary machinery of application and plans of operation;

"And whereas the Midnapore U.F.A. local here assembled are in agreement with the Premier and his government as to the desirability of increasing purchasing power so as to raise the living standards of our citizens;

"And whereas it now appears that no decisive action is being taken looking to that desired end, but, instead of which greatly increased taxation has been imposed thereby seriously reducing their purchasing power,

"Be it therefore resolved that, in the opinion of this meeting the avowed objectives and plans should be achieved and consummated without further delay."

Cow Courageous

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Dec. 7.— An advertiser in a local paper of 23 years ago offered for sale a cow "of undaunted courage" that "gives milk frequently." The yellowed advertisement says: "To a man who does not fear death in any form she would be a great boon. In May she generally goes away somewhere for a week and returns with a tall, red calf with wobbly legs."

Twice In 5,000,000

GUELPH, Ont., Dec. 7—Playing against odds of one in 5,000,000 deals, Miss E. A. Wood drew a "29" cribbage hand—said to be one that comes only once in 5,000,000 deals. It consisted of three fives, a jack of hearts, and a five of hearts on the deck. An identical hand was drawn by E. Carl of Colborne, Ont., recently.

SECURITY LAW JUDGED VALID

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—Federal Judge George C. Sweeney ruled today the Federal Social Security Act is legal when he denied George P. Davis of Waltham, a stockholder of the Boston and Maine railroad, an injunction which would have prevented the railroad from paying United States unemployment insurance.

"It is a valid excise tax and does not exceed the power of congress," Judge Sweeney said.

Davis said he would appeal the decision to the United States circuit court of appeals.

Continue Clearing Foundation Well

Clearing of the Foundation well in Turner Valley, is under way, according to Hon. C. C. Ross, minister of lands and mines, who returned on Monday from a several days visit to Calgary.

He stated that blowing of the well continues to show whether there is less water and more oil to come up.

He stated that no one can determine what production will be until a tubing is placed in the well.

WORKSOP, Eng., Dec. 7.—No wine was served at the mayoral banquet because the mayor-elect objected to ratepayers' money being spent on intoxicating liquor.

Dies On Bible

WOLVERTON, Eng., Dec. 7.— With his head resting on an open Bible, Herbert Morgan, 68 lay preacher, collapsed and died as he finished the lesson at an Armistice service.

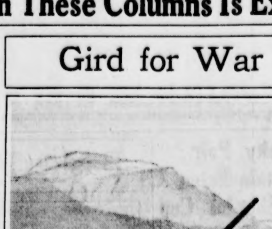

Boy Grew Rich

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. Dec. 7.— George Jackson, who died leaving $554,790, began life as a garden boy and rose to control one of the biggest fruit firms in this city.

Colors Affect

KITCHENER, Ont., Dec. 7.— More than 70 per cent of United States divorcees until a year or so ago affect persons living in apartments and 80 per cent. of the apartments were furnished in blue or brown, Lionel Scott, Toronto, told the Women's Canadian Club here. He advised his listeners to keep their homes "mellow and charming in their background."

Gird for War

With France preparing to build fortifications along the Swiss and Belgian borders, and ominous rumors rising of a possible German thrust through Swiss territory in event of a new war, Switzerland is enrolling, arming, and training her troops with feverish haste. Here, facing towering peaks of their mountainous country, a detachment of Swiss soldiers, in light marching order, is being instructed in the use of a new type of anti-aircraft gun.

Western Union Grants Regina Titular Match

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 7.— Permission for Regina Roughriders to represent the west in a dominion football championship till against Sarnia Imperials was given yesterday by executive vote of the Western Canada Rugby Football Union.

Result of the vote was forwarded to R. W. Hewitson, secretary of the Canadian Rugby Union. Previously the western executive, by mail ballot, drawn its challenge when objections were taken to Regina going east, weakened by loss of five players ineligible under residence rules.

The vote followed a conference here over the week-end between N. J. "Piffles" Taylor, president of the Regina club, and Stan Pepler, president of the Western Union. Hewitson announced that the new challenge had been accepted by the C.R.U. Dec. 7—A definite decision final has not yet been decided on, but Regina will leave for the east on Wednesday.

WILL RELIEVE FOOD SHORTAGE

Food shortage at Goldfields, mining village at the east end of Lake Athabasca, is to be relieved this week when Pilot Alex Rankin, Canadian Airways, will fly several tons of supplies, now on a barge frozen in at the south of the Athabasca river, across the lake to its original destination.

Shipment of the food into Goldfields was thwarted early in October when the M.R.T. boat which was conveying the barge was blocked by ice which formed in the Athabasca delta. Shortage of jam, bacon, matches and many other supplies has been acute in Goldfields stores. Pilot Rankin left Edmonton Monday morning, flying to Wabiskaw and Fort McMurray before proceeding to the delta.

TECHNICALITY IS POINTED OUT IN OTTAWA USAGE

By THOS. WAYLING
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, Dec. 7.—A minor issue has arisen in Ottawa as to whether Premier King has gone contrary to the statute of London in advising Governor Baldwin about the Canadian attitude.

The present contact is between Canada and the King direct through the Governor General. It is claimed in some quarters that Mr King gave advice to Premier Baldwin when he should have expressed the Canadian view through the Governor General to the King himself.

Lord Tweedsmuir was absent from the capital during the early stages of the affair. He returned Saturday and on Saturday night had an informal conference with Mr. King. It is probable that the Governor General will communicate with His Majesty.

It is known that Premier King has not committed Canada in any way, nor is it believed will he do so until he has consulted parliament.

Mayor Hanley By Acclamation

DRUMHELLER, Alta., Dec. 7— Acclamation for Mayor Hanley and the election of retiring councillors together with an acclamation for school trustee E. A. Yoshaen and nominee William Webb will save Drumheller citizens from going to the polls next Monday.

It is generally agreed locally that the Hanley administration has been efficient since he took office six years ago and the acclamation comes a vote of confidence to him.

British India, Ceylon, Japan, and the United Kingdom supply Canada with most of its tea, chiefly unprepared form.

FUR STORE IS RANSACKED FOR ILLEGAL SKINS

D. B. Mullen, M. L. A., Charges Rights of Proprietors Violated

Charging that the search for furs caught out of season conducted Monday morning by Jean Baptiste game warden, of the provincial government, at the premises of the North-Western Fur Company, 10316 101 street "is a direct violation of the rights of the proprietors, D. B. Mullin, M.L.A. who inspected the shop after it had been thrown into disarray by the search, warned that "he was going on the warpath until this outrage was rectified."

"Just listen to what happened. The game warden was looking for some furs caught illegally. He came to this shop, which had never had even a shadow of suspicion directed against it during an honorable business career stretching over a period of 25 years. So ruthless was the search, that furs were scattered all over the floor, boxes upset, and the place in a disorderly condition as the home of a reputable fur establishment," said Mr. Mullen.

NOTHING FOUND

The member waxed indignant as he stressed that nothing had been found in the building that could injure the good name of the firm, nor was any basis for the government's severe search apparent.

"The firm pays between $10,000 and $12,000 a year in royalties and taxes to the government. Surely we are entitled to some respect and consideration. Instead of that, this official comes in and proceeds to make the place messy beyond description. If there is any sense of justice left in the provincial government, it will not tolerate this scandalous abridgement of the rights of an honest business firm," said M. Shubin, one of the proprietors.

PSYCHOLOGICAL HARM

It was emphasized that no vital permanent damage had been done to the valuable stock, but a great deal of psychological harm had resulted from the search. Two buyers, I. Walters of Winnipeg, representing the New York Fur Agency, and S. Harvey, Montreal, were upset by the appearance of the disorderly shop that they delayed making large purchases for which they had specially come to Edmonton.

"Never in all my years of fur buying have I witnessed such a provocative and insulting search as this, when there was no need of a search being made at all," said Mr. Walters. "Furs change rapidly in price from day to day. The failure to sell the large order today may cost the firm a good deal of money."

Mr. Mullen said he would wait no time in interviewing the government and seeing that proper action to right what he termed "a great wrong" was instantly undertaken.

Newspapers Of Canada Praised By Thunderer

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The Times today praised the attitude of Canadian newspapers and the Canadian government in events leading up to the constitutional crisis between the King and the cabinet.

"The Canadian people more than any other in the empire," said the Times editorial, "have been exposed for many months to a flood of scandalous suggestion pouring across the American frontier. Despite this severe provocation, their own press and their government have shown a reluctance as the rest of the empire to drag down the King's private life into the dust of controversy until this last week when events outside their control made publicity unavoidable.

"With no less self-suppression, their government has been content to express no opinion until at His Majesty's own instance they were consulted."

After quoting the statement issued last Friday at Ottawa by Prime Minister Mackenzie King The Times adds: "When the advice of the Canadian government was sought, it was given in the same sense as that of the rest of the Empire."

BRITAIN SPLIT IN OPINION ON CABINET CRISIS

Labor Members Rally To Support of King Edward's Position

LONDON, Dec. 7—Comment from politicians and public figures over the conflict between King and cabinet continued tonight. Typical statements were:—

Sir Stafford Cripps, outspoken Left-wing Labor M.P.: "I cannot help feeling that if the lady in question had been a member of the English aristocracy under precisely similar circumstance a quite different decision would have been come to by the government.

"No question of international policy is raised. Certain questions of propriety are suggested in view of the lady's previous history but these seem to me not of sufficient political importance to entitle the cabinet to force the King into abdicating upon them."

George Lansbury, former leader of the Labor party in the House of Commons, pleaded in a speech in Southampton for "a spirit of compromise." He said the King would like any struggle with parliament because "an overwhelming mass of the people will see that a democratic parliament, whatever are the issues, remains supreme."

R. T. Paget, Labor candidate at Northampton: "The King is the man who is a King. He is no puppet of class. Let's show him who his real friends are. Let's show King Edward we are going to stand by him."

Sir Arnold Wilson, Conservative, speaking to his constituents in Hitchen, asked time for reflection. He continued: "The oath of allegiance in this realm is to the King, not to the King in combination. In precedence over any constitutional difficulty or expediency or party."

The Marquess of Donegall, columnist of the London Sunday Dispatch:

"I refuse to believe, as Mr. Baldwin would have us, that the British Empire consists of 493,000,000 reactionary humbugs.

"Let them change the laws. Law have been changed before.

"I wonder if the old gang don't see too strong a man arising for life to be pleasant for them."

Pamphlets signed with the name of Lady Houston, philanthropist and weekly magazine publisher, were distributed in London's West End.

They attacked those "who for weeks past have gathered on every street corner, decrying the lady whom the King is to marry, Constitutional rights with which Parliament is trying to hedge in the people do not exist! I challenge them to disprove it."

Sir Reginald Blaker, Conservative M.P.:

"The King hasn't had a fair deal. He has been rushed. Each man is his own keeper; each woman, her's. I do not believe the cabinet attitude is that of the British public, which should be taken."

Hon. Mr. Justice H. H. Davies Will Visit Edmonton

Hon. Mr. Justice H. H. Davies, Ottawa, of the Supreme Court of Canada and president of the Canadian Bar Association, will be in Edmonton December 15 for an official visit with members of the bar practising in Northern Alberta.

His desire, local officials of the Bar Association have been informed, is to meet many of the practitioners as possible during his stop over here.

Plans are being made for a large Bar Association dinner at the Macdonald on the evening of December 15 to which lawyers of Calgary and from all northern Alberta points will be invited.

West End Liberal Rally This Evening

With preparations all concluded for the rousing rally of the West End Liberal Association at Westminster community hall Monday night at 8:15 p.m., officials are confident that the meeting will mark one of the most successful of its kind ever held in the city.

Several prominent members of the party will deliver brief addresses, touching upon the achievements of Liberalism and explaining the contribution it can make to the solution of Canada's vexed social and economic problems. But it will not be at all a political gathering in the ordinary sense.

Looking Them Over

Union Wrecked

Governors Quit

Fighters Wanted

FUTURE histories will refer to the 1936 football season in Western Canada as the "now we do, now we don't" year. Things finally came to a head over the week-end when the Western Union took another vote on whether or not Regina should go east, and this time the "now-we-do" gang edged out a majority. It now seems fairly certain that Regina will go east to play Sarnia for the Dominion grid title—unless somebody starts voting again.

However, this last vote—instigated by Regina—has wrecked the Western Canada Union. Both Alberta governors, A. W. Matthews of Edmonton, and A. M. Naismith of Calgary, were preparing their resignations from the union last night on the grounds that the week-end vote was unconstitutional and illegal. Other western governors are expected to take similar action.

Last night Andy Naismith wired me from Calgary: "Consider a second vote on the same question and the same set of facts to be unconstitutional and illegal, especially so after disclosing how the various governors had cast their ballots on the first vote. As a protest against such proceedings, I have resigned all offices in the Western Canadian Rugby Football Union. Believe other western governors will take similar action."

"Whit" Matthews agrees whole-heartedly with Naismith. "I'm done with the Western Union," Whit declared emphatically. "It has become the laughing stock of Canada. This second vote on the same question and same facts is absolutely contrary to the constitution. From start to finish Regina's attitude has been an impossible one. First they announce they won't go east without their ineligible players. Then when the Western Union acts on that information, they suddenly change their minds and say they will go after all, but indicate that they will abide by the union's decision. Then when the union rejects them, they apparently put the pressure on the Saskatchewan governors, switch them over and have another vote taken. It has become ridiculous."

Leather-Pushers Wanted

WITH promising plans underway to make boxing one of Western Canada's major sports, Promoter Freddie Osbourne is sending out a call for every leather-pusher who has fistic ambitions. There are scores of fighters scattered around Alberta who have the makings of first class beak busters. They lack proper training, however, and regular fights. Osbourne is now in a position to give them both. He is rated as a trainer second to none in Canada and the fight program he has lined up for the winter season is exactly what is needed to develop whatever ability a man has.

Osbourne wants as many fighters as he can get in contact with, regardless of their experience and records to date. Heavyweights are especially in demand. He will give them plenty of chance to show what they have, and if he thinks they have possibilities, he will train them in his gym and give them all the fights needed to bring them along.

For years a fighter in Western Canada has not been able to make enough from fighting to keep himself in sox. There are two reasons for this state of affairs. The first is that there has not been a properly organized body of control. The second is that fighters and promoters will not co-operate for their mutual good. Mitt men can only get fights when promoters stage them. The heavy guarantees, taxation, etc., make it impossible for the fighting purse available for promoters to stage fight cards regularly. The result is that boxing fans have lost interest in the game. The solution is simple. If fighters will just take a lesson in co-operation from the wrestlers, they will not only soon have plenty of sox for their feet, but also ears to be confused in. The average wrestler is making as much money in a month as the average Canadian fighter makes in a year.

Making money in the fight business requires fighters and promoters. One is as important as the other and neither can work without the other. However, fighters are prone to develop big heads. This has been their financial downfall. As soon as they win a few fights, they figure they are big shots and they start talking guarantees so high that no promoter can use them. The result is that just when they should be fighting every week or ten days, they get about two fights a year and wind up in the ash can without getting anywhere.

The T. Eaton Western Company's trophy, symbolical of the Edmonton inter-club badminton doubles championship is still at the University of Alberta. Harry "Red" Cooper and Barbara Jarman successfully turned back Mrs. Brough and Allan Nash, challengers from the Edmonton club in a match held in the Varsity gym Saturday afternoon.

Sarnia Imperials Take Eastern Football Crown Trouncing Ottawa 26-20

Powerful Oilers Pile Up Early Lead and Stand Off Valiant Fourth Quarter Roughrider Attack

By ELMER DULMAGE

TORONTO, Dec. 7.—Sarnia Imperials turned back a spectacular Ottawa Roughrider drive in the dying minutes of the game here Saturday and won the eastern Canada football championship 26-20 from the gallant champions of the Big Four.

Tearing down the big defences of the Ottawa Rough in their frantic march to one touchdown and to within 13 yards of another that would have tied the score, Roughriders kept the crowd of 7,000 in a hysteria of cheering during the final fourth period.

TURN ON TORMENTORS

Overpowered for three quarters, victims of a dazzling Sarnia offensive that rolled up four touchdowns in the first half, Ottawa turned on their tormenters in the final stanza with a devastating onslaught led by the great Dave Sprague, Colin Ross, Arnie Morrison, Jack Leore and Tommy Daley.

They marched downfield for one touchdown, Morrison sprinting over from the two-yard line, then they took Sarnia's kick-off on their goal line and carried the ball 97 yards without losing it. Sprague and Ross ripped the Imperial ramparts wide open.

But at the 13-yard line Sarnia finally checked the drive and a forward pass gamble for a touchdown was knocked down.

FOUR BEFORE HALF

Mike Hedgewick and Ormond Beach each scored two touchdowns for the O.R.F.U. champions before half time when the western Ontario force mastered Ottawa completely. Beach then was ripping the Roughrider defences into ribbons, ably assisted by Rocky Parsaca and Hugh Stirling.

The fleet Hedgewick had Ottawa's ends bottled up and along in the third period Imperials were apparently coasting to victory when the sudden uprising struck them.

Sarnia's new champions were likely to be named Canadian titleholders for the second time in three seasons as it appeared unlikely the west would send a challenger to defend the crown won last season by Winnipeg.

Superiors and Dominions Drill in Preparation for Senior League Opener at Arena Tuesday Evening

King Winter in all his frosty glory has finally asserted himself—and with a vengeance.

Brrr, up early this cold Sunday morning and after curlers and sinkers it's a long trip aboard a tram to the Crockett's east-end ice palace.

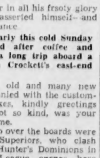

Old scenes, old and many new faces accompanied with the customary handshakes, kindly greetings and others not so kind, was your agent's welcome.

First to drop over the boards were Ira Stuart's Superiors, who clash with Walter Hunter's Dominions in the Senior League opener here Tuesday evening.

Rep. "Pep" Moon is acting as referee, and after your agent condescends to swap a good warm cap for a hat that is much too small for him, the whistle is tooting Moon gets the game under way.

GRAHAM GOT PUCK

There is the drop of the puck between Jimmy Graham and Don Stewart with the cagey Graham getting the rubber Graham is flanked by Ed. Donald and Jack Wolfe, orspon, while Stuart is covered on the wings by Paul Maher and Ralph Morgan. Graham's defence is D. A. Gillies, returning to local hockey after a lengthy rendezvous in the coal branch. Gillies' rear-guard mate is Kenny Caldwell with Don Stuart between the pipes. The second team's defence is Mayer Fleet and Johnny Lamont, while covering goal is Don's understudy.

Wotherspoon

As slated previously, Graham started the game. It still is the same Graham who has taken the spotlight in hockey here for years. If anyone tries to tell you Jimmy is nearly through, all they have to do is to watch the crafty pivot drilling. Jimmy worked well between Donald and Wotherspoon, the latter a clever junior from last year's South Side A's. They are expected to work well together, and while he did not start definitely, Boss Stuart intimated that would be one line he will throw against Dominions tomorrow night.

GOOD SECOND LINE

But do not get the impression that the Graham, Wotherspoon, Donald line is the only one on the Soop squad. With Don Stewart at centre and Ralph Morgan and Paul Maher on the wings, there is good scoring power in this trio. They work well together in a smart combination manner and they have the speed for necessary back-checking.

Speaking of plays, out at the Arena Sunday I saw several grand plays between Graham and Gillies. They were like plays that are used to make some six or seven years ago when the Superiors were cutting a wide swath in provincial and interprovincial competition.

Up in the Coal Branch for the last four years, Gillies or alternationally known as "D.A." has returned to play for the team with whom he first gained hockey prominence. Looking just a little older, "D.A." is in great shape. He showed that with many grand CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—New York Rangers increased their lead on the United States section of the National hockey league with a 2-1 victory over the lowly Chicago Black Hawks last night.

Young Alex Shibicky and Neil Colville were the Ranger offensive stars, getting their team's goals, but Davie Kerr, diminutive Ranger goalie, played brilliantly and was the hub of a New York defence that withstood a furious Hawk drive in the last period.

Shibicky opened the scoring in the second period, beating goalie Mike Karakas on a drive from just inside the line with Neil Colville and Lynn Patrick getting assists. In the third period, Neil Colville broke away with a loose puck, outskated two Chicago defencemen and beat Karakas unassisted.

Paul Thompson saved his team from a shutout, scoring with a minute to play on a backward flip from right wing that Kerr couldn't reach.

Amerks Tie Wings To Share Top Slot

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—New York Americans went into a tie with Montreal Canadiens for first place in the Canadian section of the National hockey league by holding Detroit Red Wings to a 3-3 overtime tie here Saturday night before 16,000 people. The Amerks were ousted from front place when Canadiens defeated Boston Saturday night but regained a grip on the leadership by breaking even with Detroit.

YOUNG BREAKS ANKLE

Starting the game with three regulars on the sidelines, the Red Wings suffered further misfortune when Doug. Young, star defenceman, suffered a broken ankle in the first period. He crashed into the boards after receiving a jolting body check from Allan Shields.

A brace of goals by Lorne Carr in the second frame after each team had scored in the first gave the Amerks an apparently safe lead. But Herbie Lewis led a counter attack that knotted the count with a goal late in the second session and another in the third.

Maroons Remain In Cellar Berth

TORONTO, Dec. 7. — Montreal Maroons are still in the National Hockey League's Canadian Division cellar berth tonight, but now they have Toronto Leafs for company.

Tommy Gorman's team defeated Leafs 3-1 here Saturday night and tied the Torontonians for the cellar position behind New York Americans and Montreal Canadiens. Two thousand persons watched the injury-weakened Leafs beaten by a superior defence. They were without Charlie Conacher, Bob Davidson and Buzz Boll.

Maroons scored two goals in the first period and thereafter Alex Connell's great netminding, a rock-bound defence and a bit of forechecking kept them ahead.

Habitants Edge Out 4-3 Victory

MONTREAL, Dec. 7.—Big Babe Siebert, bulwark of Montreal Canadiens defence, became the spearhead of their attack Saturday night as the Habitants defeated Boston Bruins 4-3.

Siebert opened the scoring for Canadiens in the first period and shot second goal to tie the score at 2-2 in the third after Bruins wiped out a two-goal deficit and took the lead. Little Jollat fired the winning goal with two minutes and 30 seconds to play.

Siebert's first goal came after Jack McGill and Rod Lorrain handed the puck in a corner scramble. One second before the period ended, Bill McKenzie, acquired from Montreal Maroons Friday, ended a sparkling individual dash by drawing out Thompson and scoring Canadiens' second. Bill Cowley got Bruins' first goal in the second on passes from Frank Jerwa and Charlie Sands. Then Sands spanked a shot past Wilf Cude with the help of Ray Getliffe. Cowley added another with a backhand shot from 20 feet out to give Boston the lead.

At the start of the third period, Siebert tied the score on Paul Haynes' pass.

Notre Dame's Grid Machine Held To Draw

Schedule Ends One of The Dizziest Seasons In Grid History

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—They closed the books on "King" Football's scheduled 1936 appearance in the United States, writing off one of the dizziest seasons in gridiron history.

There remain only a pair of games next week and the customary "Bowl" fixtures, topped by the eyebrow-raising selection of Pittsburgh against Washington in the tournament of Roses clash, and the meeting of Louisiana and Santa Clara in the sugar bowl.

Notre Dame, the unpredictable, suffered a "moral defeat" against Southern California yesterday when they outfought and outplayed the Trojans all the way, only to be held to a 13-all standoff.

TROUNCE TEXAS

As expected, Arkansas' passing Razorbacks won the south-western conference title by trouncing Texas 6-0 in the season windup.

Temple's Owls couldn't hold an early lead and dropped a 13-7 decision to the Gaels of St. Mary's on the Pacific Coast. Manhattan's Jaspers were baffled by a well-mixed passing and running game to fall before Texas Aggies 13-6.

The southwest finish saw Southern Methodist's erratic Mustangs rout Rice 9-0, and Texas Tech earn an unexpected 7-all deadlock with Arizona.

Portland Bucks Win 2-1 Over Vancouver

PORTLAND, Dec. 7.—Portland Buckaroos jumped back into the leadership of the Pacific Coast Hockey League last night with a hard-fought 2-1 victory over the last place Vancouver Lions.

Both Buckaroo goals came in the second period, the veteran Ralph Blyth scoring on a pass from Bob Gilmour with Tony Scharfe, former Saskatoon junior, counting second on Jimmy Jempson's pass. Lorin Mercer robbed Andy Aitkenhead of a shutout by smashing his hard drive into the nets five minutes before the final whistle.

Walthour-Crossley Win Gotham Bikes

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Jim Walthour of New York and Al Crossley of Boston held the championship of New York's six-day bike race, representing the first time since 1927 an American team captured the local grind.

The first three teams rode 2,499 miles, seven. The winners had 349 sprint points against 342 for the Canadian-American team, and 370 for Georgetti-Debaets.

Guldahl Steps In Top Place In Golf

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Dec. 7.—Horton Smith of Chicago was far from his sharp-shooting self yesterday carding a 75 and sulking Ralph Guldahl of St. Louis moved up to the top in the $10,000 Miami open golf tournament.

Smith's six-over-par third round dropped him to a four-way tie for third place with Denny Shute of Coral Gables, Henry Picard of Hershey Pa., and Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Texas. They had 214 for 54 holes.

Both R. E. Olds and Elwood Haynes began work on gasoline cars in 1894; the former in Lansing, the latter in Kokomo, Ind.

A. M. NAISMITH RESIGNS OVER FOOTBALL SNAG

President - Elect Protests Handling of Roughriders' Challenge

A. W. Matthews, of Edmonton, resigned his position as governor on the board of the W.C.R.F.U. Monday morning. His formal resignation was forwarded to President Stan. Pepler, of Winnipeg by wire.

CALGARY, Dec. 7.—In protest against the Western Canada Rugby Football Union's handling of the western challenge, A. M. Naismith, of Calgary, today announced his resignation as president-elect of the W.C.R.F.U.

J. M. Bannerman, western member of the Canadian Rugby Union and third vice president of the W.C.R.F.U., also announced his resignation from office.

OFFICIAL PROTEST

The week-end vote of the W.C.R.F.U. governors which rescinded the union's previous withdrawal of its challenge and nominated the Regina Roughriders as western representatives in the final with Sarnia brought the protest from the Calgary officials.

"I consider a second vote on the same question and the same set of facts unconstitutional and illegal," said Naismith. He especially protested a second vote should have been taken "after disclosing how the various governors had voted on the first vote."

POSITION WEAKENED

"The method of handling the present challenge has weakened the west's position in the eyes of eastern football officials," said Bannerman in announcing his resignation.

"The efforts we had been making for equal representation will hardly be given the consideration it merits," he added.

Both announced they were forwarding immediately letters of resignation to Stan Pepler, of Winnipeg, president of the W.C.R.F.U.

24 Injured, Houses Down In Tornado

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 7. — Tornadic winds ripped through sections of three mid-south states Sunday, injuring 24 persons, damaging stock, and caving in a dozen homes and business buildings. Most severe of the storms which struck in Alabama, Arkansas and Mississippi, dipped 12 miles north-east of here, injuring 20 and demolishing more than a half dozen homes.

The first automobile advertisemen was placed in the Saturday Evening Post in 1900.

rushes down the ice, and he still is the rugged but cagey defenceman of bygone years. He seems slated for a great season in the Superior livery.

Alternating on the front ranks with Bob Haxby, last year a junior star, and Danny McLeod on the wings, Ab Darker also took a wing position, boosting the forward strength considerably.

DEFENCE WEAK

Still weak on defence, Dominions have, however, increased power on front lines. The strongest part in the Dominion defence, of course is Fred Layetzke who skilfully guards the Dominion goal mouth. In front of Layetzke were Dougie Hargraves and Harold Sutton, while Bill Gauf and Tommy Brant formed the secondary defence line. Sutton is a junior from last year's South Side team while Gauf, as you will remember, played defence on the Normandie squad in Edmonton Athletic Club juniors three years ago. Brant comes from the Commercial league, having played with Saskatoon Welders.

And that is the lineup for Tuesday evening when hockey hostilities open up at the Arena starting at 8:30 p.m. With only a few days' practice, the teams have rapidly gained their skating legs, coming out of practices with no serious injury.

On paper, and after looking over Sunday morning drills, Superiors appear to have an edge over the team that last year beat them in every game but the playoffs. After Tuesday's game, more definite conclusions may be made, but the talent is far superior to that expected for this season.

For nearly two frost-bitten hours the Scops drilled and it was one big surprise for your agent, for he hardly thought the talent would reach such a high mark. Sincerely, the Scops look much stronger than they did this time last year.

Chilled feet—better known as pump's—had hardly been thawed out before Dominions, led by Playing Coach Lefty Grove, took to the glistening pond.

Dominions showed real strength on their forward lines with the playing of Lefty Grove Mohrer, recently reinstated after a short professional career, a highlight of the practice. Mohrer, not so long ago one of the finest amateurs, still possesses hockey skill. He worked well with both front lines. Grove teamed up with him on many smart plays. Mohrer also will work well with Shorts Purcell and Jimmy Anderson.

Tuesday — Featured Sale of Scarves for Men!

We can do no better than to quote the well-known "Esquire" in regard to choosing your man something to wear — "Trick gifts and gadgets are grand if you know a man's mind well enough to be sure that they will tickle his fancy, but you know without wondering about it that any man, at this season, has use for items like these. And real appreciation, too, if they're styled as correctly as these are."

With no more ado, we suggest that you shop early, and as often as there are masculine names on your list, for scarves like these.

Each is a value to do your giving proud — and to do That Man justice!
